600 Good Books? Hardly
The "No-Man" Husband
The Apes Remember
Coolidge Common Sense

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1925, by Star Co.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS will publish a list of the 600 best books produced in each year. What a fine world this would be if it could produce 600 books really worth keeping! Of all books ever written you might destroy all but 600, and still have left everything really important.

THE CALIPH OMAR destroyed the magnificent library at Alexandria, saying that if the books agreed with the Koran they were superfluous, and if they opposed it they were vicious and should be destroyed for that reason.

That was too drastic, but if the League of Nations could find six books every year of permanent value that would be a good many.

MISS NORA BAYES' experience commands respectful attention. Returning with her fifth husband, she says she is on her first real honeymoon, because this husband is a "NO-MAN."

The experienced lady divides husbands into the weak "YES-MAN," and the powerful, manly "NO-MAN."

The "No-Man," as you guess, harks back to the cave and knows how to say "no." A woman likes to be bossed, says Miss Bayes, and so gets tired of a "Yes-Man."

An interesting definition of husbands, but there is such a thing as saying "NO" too often. Who knows but No. 6 may be another "Yes-Man?"

PROFESSOR WOLFGANG KOEHLER of Berlin tells Columbia University how the great apes resemble man. They vary in intelligence as men do, but have better memories than men. They know enough to break a branch from a tree, to reach out for a fruit beyond the reach of their hands.

Professor Koehler annoys those who are sure that Darwin didn't know what he was talking about.

HOW WOULD the learned professor explain intelligence of insects far surpassing that of any ape?

How does the mud wasp perform a surgical operation on a caterpillar, paralyzing and keeping it alive all Winter, to be eaten by young wasps when they hatch?

WHO TAUGHT the ant to organize cities, establish a nobility of parasites, and take care, like the bees, of a queen, because she means the perpetuation of the tribe?

Who taught working bees to let the male drones live until the queen has made her choice and then kill the survivors?

He who denies the importance of evolution is, of course, an ignoramus. He who would use evolution to explain everything is equally foolish.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE talked good common sense on "giving preference to home industry and American workmen." Newspapers say he "defended" such preference, but there is no need for defence.

The duty of a nation, its government and its chief executives is to work for that nation, and for the working people that have created it.

THE BRITISH are not bashful about giving the preference to British workers. In every advertisement you read, "British Made," or "British Built." Too many Americans brag about the fact that what they offer is "Imported from England," as though there were nothing fit to produce or use in this country. If you MAKE your money in America, SPEND it in America.

MRS. GEORGIA HACKETT RUGGLES, of Los Angeles, left the bulk of her fortune, $500,000, to the Christian Science Church. The church cannot get the money because the will was made only twenty-six days before the lady died.

Under California law no church can inherit unless the will was made thirty days before death.

The theory is that, on the edge of the grave, a rich individual is apt to be too much interested in his own immediate celestial future, not enough interested in his relatives' earthly future.

IF THE FRENCH Socialist Prime Minister Herriot is forced to call an election, as seems probable, the result will be

HEAVY LOSSES AS FIRES WIPE OUT TIMBER AND TREES

Forest fires in New Hampshire, thought to have been under control at midnight, are raging with new vigor today as the result of high winds which hourly are increasing the damage suffered by similar conflagrations in Massachusetts, Rhode Island and other sections of New England.

The New Hampshire fires are said to be of the worst experienced in the southern part of that State in years.

The worst New Hampshire fire is raging at Deerfield, twelve miles east of Manchester. Hundreds of residents of Raymond, Candia, and Pembroke fought this fire all night along a three-mile front.

One million feet of cut lumber, 1,500 acres of valuable standing timber, a house, two barns and a garage were destroyed.

Lumber experts found it impossible to estimate the damage at this place, but said it would run into hundreds of thousands of dollars.

SUMMER HOUSES CATCH.

At one time during the night 15 Summer residences in different sections of Deerfield were on fire at the same time.

Arthur Bailey of Manchester lost a half a million feet of valuable cut timber at Deerfield.

The Major Red House, historical landmark, over a mile from where the Deerfield fire started, containing

STRIKE PICKETS ARE STATIONED ON JOBS

Picketing began today in the Boston building trades strike.

Members of the painters' unions were on "peaceable patrol" in front of all jobs which had been reported as employing strike-breakers.

Secretary Templeton of the Painters' District Council, which includes the four house painters' locals, said that the pickets were sent out for observation duty.

"We understand that not more than half a dozen non-union painters are employed, he said. "We want to find out the truth."

Officers of the Painting and Decorating Employers' Association countered that there were 50 non-union painters at work on one job alone, and about 100 over all the city.

The formal reply of the master painters to the demand of the men for $1.25 an hour, instead of $1.10 was made today. The gist of it

GIRL IN DONAHEY ELOPEMENT FOUND

Columbus, Ohio, April 8.—Lillian Vogel, fifteen-year-old missing Zanesville girl, is in Columbus and she was brought here Sunday night in his auto by Hal Donahey, seventeen-year-old son of Governor Donahey; [illegible] at the Governor's office today.

The Governor was in a very stern mood today.

The girl, it is presumed, will be taken back to Zanesville by her mother, who is en route to Columbus.

Hal admitted to his father that he brought the girl to Columbus Sunday night, and immediately Governor Dohaney communicated with Chief of Police French of Columbus and with Prosecutor Crossland of Muskingum County, advising them that he would co-operate to bring about justice.

The girl was located at an East Side rooming house after a person, whose identity was notrevealed, called the Governor's office and announced that she was inthis ctiy. When faced with this fact, Young Donahey broke down.

Previously he had stuck to his story that he knew nothing of the girl's whereabouts and that he had left her at her home in Zanesville before returning to Columbus.

Three persons aiding police in probe into death of Alexander Buchanan, Waverley "gas mask" victim. At top, left, William Wallace, who saw strangers in Waverley on fatal night; right, Marjorie Gilmore, nurse and friend of Buchanan; below, Edgar Wallace, brother of William, who also saw mysterious strangers near death scene.

MAN WHO REVEALED U. S. BOND FRAUDS IS OUSTED

Washington, April 8.—Charles B. Brewer, who made charges of fraud and duplication of government bonds, has been ousted from the Department of Justice, where he was a special agent. Appointed by President Harding, he investigated the government engraving plant where there was a wholesale dismissal of employes. Following an inquiry by Treasury agents many were reinstated. Brewer took his case into court and Congress. A majority of an investigating committee of the House held there had been some duplications in bonds.

HERRIOT SUSTAINED BY ONLY 2 MAJORITY

Paris, April 8 (A.P.)—The Herriot government, raising the question of confidence on a minor detail of the education budget in the Chamber of Deputies this evening obtained a majority of only two, the vote being 142 to 140.

The Chamber of Deputies fixed Friday evening for discussion of the government's bill for relief of the fiscal difficulties of France. The finance committee promised to have its report on the measure ready at that time.

BOY DIES IN FIRST 1925 BASEBALL FATALITY

GASOLINE PRICE CUT ONE CENT IN BOSTON

The retail price of gasoline was chopped one cent today in Boston by the American Oil Co., reducing the price to the motorist to 23 cents.

None of the other concerns slashed their prices, however, and at the tanks of leading distributors the price remained at 24 cents.

It was hoped in Boston and New England today that local tanks would hang up the 23-cent signs, following yesterday's action by Standard Oil and the Gulf Refining Co. in reducing prices one cent a gallon in the New Jersey district which covers a territory as far south as Washington and Maryland.

The first local cut in the gasoline price since last Fall was made two weeks ago, when all companies slipped the gallon rate down a penny from 25 to 24 cents.

CHILDREN HEARD MAN CRY FOR HELP NEAR SCENE OF TRAGEDY

Questioning of three Canadians, held as vagrants in Dedham jail, and the report that children heard cries for help near McLean Hospital Friday night, were two important developments today in the investigation of the slaying of Alexander Buchanan, Canadian veteran.

The vagrants were arrested after stealing milk and eggs from the premises of Mrs. Mary Hinkly, Brook road, Milton, and were sent to Dedham jail. They gave their names as Rene Roucher, Edward Tremblay and Joseph [illegible], when taken into custody by the Milton police.

State Detectives Edward J. O'Neill and Michael J. Barrett, accompanied by Chief of Police John Argy of Belmont, grilled the men at the jail and then began an attempt to check up on their movements.

If they prove to be the men who were seen in the vicinity of the McLean Hospital before and after the death of Buchanan, they will probably be held in connection with the murder.

CHILDREN HEARD CRIES.

The report that children heard cries issuing from the woods near the hospital was being investigated by the Belmont police today. According to the report, the children were playing near the [illegible] crossing on Pleasant street, diagonally opposite the spot where Buchanan's body was found. Shortly after 7 o'clock they heard screams and cries for help, and becoming frightened, ran home. The cries came from the path leading from the nurses' home.

The police were today attempting to locate these children, some of whom are believed to live on Grant avenue or in that vicinity.

One of the boys was George Park, nephew of Lieutenant George Park of the Belmont police. The boy lives on White street, is twelve years old and a pupil in the Daniel Butler Grammar School.

He told his mother of hearing the cries and she today made the fact known to Lieutenant Park. Young Park said he and his companions paid little attention to the cries at the time, but the next day, when the body was discovered, remembered what they had heard.

TALKED WITH YOUTH.

An investigation also was being made of the story told by Edward Murphy, fourteen-year-old Belmont High School freshman, who lives at

JAILER ASLEEP, 2 CUT BARS AND ESCAPE

Barnstable, April 8.—Sawing through the steel bars of their cells while the jailer slept, two alleged automobile thieves escaped from Barnstable jail early today.

The fugitives are John A. Kennealy, 20 years old, and George H. Silvia, 26. They were awaiting trial.

An alarm was sent to the police of all Cape Cod towns as well as to the police of Boston and immediately after daybreak motorcycle officers were scouring over the roads in search of them.

At the same time an investigation was begun to determine where they got the saws with which they severed the steel bars [illegible] which were supposed to be strong enough to hold any prisoner.

When the jailer arrived at their cells this morning and called out to them, they did not answer. The most casual examination of the front of the cells told the story of their escape.

While at dinner yesterday the men joked a good deal and commented on the strength of the cells and the poor chances of a getaway. They had been in jail two weeks.

Kennealy is described as 5 feet 8 inches tall, wearing a gray suit and cap. He weighs about 150 pounds. Silvia is about 5 feet 7 inches, and was wearing light-colored trousers and an army coat when he took French leave.

BABE RUTH INSISTS ON LEAVING SICK BED

Asheville, N. C., April 8.—"Babe" Ruth, fretting and fuming on his sick bed here, declared that he would leave the city today and play in the opening game of the baseball season in New York next Tuesday, despite the order of his physician to the contrary.

Ruth was not ill this morning aside from weakness following his collapse. He was left in bed at the Battery Park Hotel here when his team mates resumed their northward journey today. He planned to take a train direct to New York about 4 o'clock.

The Babe passed a restful night, but it will not be known until later in the day whether the Yankee slugger will be permitted to stand the tiresome ride North.

Miller Huggins, manager of the Yankees said:

"Right now, I will say that Ruth will not play in any more training

GIRL SOUGHT IN 9,000 CITIES IS FOUND

New York, April 8.—Prosecutor Hart of Bergen County, N. J., informed New York police today from Hackensack that Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKenzie had identified a child known as Mildred Grofe, found in Englewood, N. J., as their daughter, Lillian, who was kidnaped here in August. Identification of the child ends one of the most baffling mysteries in the history of the Police Department. Police of more than 9,000 cities aided in the hunt for the Grofe child.

NEW CLUES ARE SOUGHT IN GAS MASK DEATH MYSTERY

No. 275 Waverley street, Waverley.

He said he was sitting in a trolley shelter at the foot of the hospital path on Friday afternoon, waiting for a trolley to Waltham. The boy said two men appeared, and one of them, noticing the saxophone Murphy carried, engaged him in conversation regarding it. He said he played a saxophone and other instruments in the Canadian army, and had smuggled a saxophone into this country from Canada. The boy said he talked a good deal about Canada.

At 3:05 the trolley arrived, and the three boarded it. The two men talked with the conductor about Auburndale cars, young Murphy said, and got off later. The boy said the man with whom he talked had a ruddy, full face, was about five feet eight or nine inches tall and about thirty years old. He wore a dark overcoat with braid on the front and a dark hat. The other man appeared about the same age and wore light clothing and a cap.

SAW MEN IN WOODS.

Sixteen-year-old John Merton of No. 6 Clark street, Waverley, told the police that on Saturday morning, about eleven o'clock, he saw three men coming out of the woods 200 yards from where the body was found. The men, who were in Indian file, slipped back into the woods when they saw Merton.

His description of the leader tallies somewhat with the second man described by Murphy. The second man, Merton said, was dressed in dark clothes and had a "sort of red beard." He could not furnish a description of the third. The boy said there was no black satchel or overnight case in evidence.

Nellie Pucheau of No. 297 Beacon street, Boston, told the Boston Evening American today she had known Alexander Buchanan for three years and was positive through her intuition that he was murdered.

"For the past three years," said Miss Pucheu, "Sandy was a friend of mine, and I fail to understand the theory that his death was a suicide.

"In the first place he was too much of a man and secondly he thought too much of his people, especially his mother. Shortly after Christmas I was talking with him and he mentioned that $52 had been stolen from him. He seemed very much put out as he said he needed the money at that time.

HARD HIT BY JILTING.

"I met him at the First United Presbyterian Church, and frequently talked with him there. He discussed his engagement to Jessie McKenzie with me, and always placed his mother above Jessie in his affections.

"Nevertheless when the engagement was broken he took it very seriously.

"One Sunday morning I met them on the way to church. Although Sandy was always a neat dresser he looked especially well that morning. I said to Jessie: 'Sandy is certainly quite a man today.' She replied: 'Sandy always was a man.'

"Everyone who knew Sandy was a good friend of his, and he would go the limit for a friend. It is absurd to thing he committed suicide, on account of his love for his mother.

"Everything that Sandy did he put his whole heart and soul into it. His only diversions seemed to be social affairs at the church, where he was a great worker, helping in the organization of plays and socials, selling tickets, and doing whatever he could find to do.

"After the engagement was broken he did not look well, but there was no great change in his manner. He and Charlie were great pals. He was murdered and I believe at least two men were the cause of his death. I have no evidence to justify it except my intuition."

VICTIM OF MURDER.

Buchanan was a homicide victim, who died of strangulation and not from the effects of chloroform, Dr. David C. Dow of Cambridge declared today.

Dr. Dow, with two other associate medical examiners, performed an autopsy on the body of the former soldier, which showed the man's death did not result from inhaling chloroform placed in the gas mask fastened to his head.

This statement offsets the suicide theory advocated by State detectives, who demonstrated it would have been possible for Buchanan to have adjusted gag and mask, and then holding his breath, to have placed his hands in the loops of the cord and draw them tight.

When the body was found the man's hands were bound and fastened under one knee, a gag was tied so tightly in his mouth that he had strangled, and a gas mask containing chloroform was fastened on his head.

Dr. Dow's finding is supported by Assistant District Attorney Charles E. Lawrence of Middlesex County, in charge of the investigation, who holds his opinion that Buchanan was murdered and by more than one man.

SCOUT SUICIDE THEORY.

Admitting Buchanan might have held his breath long enough to adjust the cords around his wrists, the authorities deny that he could have strangled himself with the gag and then placed his hands in the nooses.

The condition of the dead man's throat showed that he was unable to breathe at all because of the gag, which was bound with a cord tied tightly about his head. Furthermore the cord was so short that when brought together the ends barely afforded enough room to work for a man with strong, capable fingers.

One belief is that only a sailor or longshoreman could have tied the knot and that it would have been impossible for Buchanan to have done it himself.

Another argument against suicide, according to some authorities, is the fact that Buchanan's death occurred some time before his insurance policy had run a year.

The policy would have been a year old on April 15, after which time it would not have been affected by suicide. In other words, if Buchanan took his own life before April 15 he would have voided the policy which was made out to his mother.

MORE SLEUTHS ON CASE.

Although not overlooking the suicide theory, the authorities today were concentrating on their search for murderers with augmented forces.

In addition to State Detective Edward P. O'Neil, who has attained fame as an investigator, Captain Thomas E. Blight, head of the State Detective Bureau, and Michael H. Barrett, tutor of law in the State Police Training School and a detective of wide experience, have been assigned to the case.

With them are working Chief of Police John Argy and Lieutenant Parks of Belmont, and several officers from that town's department.

The theory that the veteran may have been the victim of insane patients of the McLean Hospital is being carefully investigated, although the police place little credence in it. Officers Donahue, Cox and Donovan of the Belmont department are making an investigation along that line.

Another and better set of fingerprints than those found on the gas mask were obtained from the body of Buchanan by Sergt. O'Brien and Ray Cox of the Belmont police.

These will be checked up with the others, and photographs of them sent to Washington and Ottawa for identification.

SEARCH EXTENDED.

Police officials engaged in the investigation of the murder extended their search for a motive for the slaying of the Canadian war veteran to points thousands of miles away from Boston today.

This action followed elimination of all clues and the fruitless examination of scores of friends and relatives of the slain man living in and near this city.

State detectives are today in communication with persons in the far-off home town of the victim—in Sugar Loaf, Queens County, Nova Scotia, seeking possible explanation of the dreadful fears of death which obsessed the mask murder victim for many months.

State Detectives Edward F. O'Neil and Michael Barrett are anxious to have a fuller statement from Miss McKenzie, his former fiancee. They hope to elicit from her some suggestion which may explain why Buchanan, model young churchman, devoted son and brother feared death.

PEEPER SEEN.

Local police today began a search for the "Peeper" who was discovered peering into the reception rooms of the nurses' home of the McLean Hospital at 6:50 last Friday night, just before Buchanan said good-night to his sister Christine with whom he had spent the evening.

At 6:55 that night Buchanan left his sister on the veranda of the nurses' home and started down the woods path towards his mother's home in Sanfrina Way, nearby.

Five minutes before he left the building one of the hospital executives, a woman, was startled when approaching one of the windows of the reception room to see the face of a man pressed against a pane, with hands raised to shade his eyes from the lights inside.

The man wheeled and darted away from the window when he saw that he was observed and his discoverer watching from a vantage point saw him disappear behind a corner of the building.

The hospital executive when she reported the incident to the Belmont police also stated that she saw an automobile with drawn curtains speed down the path towards Pleasant street soon after the "Peeper" disappeared.

But when the Misses Margery and Bernice Gilmore, missing McLean Hospital nurses, who left the institution Friday, appeared at Belmont police headquarters to inquire why they were sought, the value of the "mystery auto" clew was dissapated.

For the "mystery auto," so they said, was the car in which they drove to the hospital from West Newton to get their bags and belongings. They quit the institution earlier in the day dissatisfied with their jobs and determined to secure positions elsewhere.

And, strangely enough, it was the driver of this car, Dewey Wile of No. 232 Cherry street, West Newton, the girls' brother-in-law, who was the last person to see Alexander Buchanan alive.

He was waiting for them outside the nurses' home on the hospital grounds about 7 o'clock Friday evening. The girls were inside getting their clothing.

"I turned my car around after they went inside, and I noticed that where I turned there was a path leading down the hill through the woods toward Waverley," said Wile.

"When I got turned around, I settled down to wait, and it was then I saw a man walking down the path. He quickly disappeared out of sight, and as it was dark I was unable to get a look at him closely enough to describe him in detail.

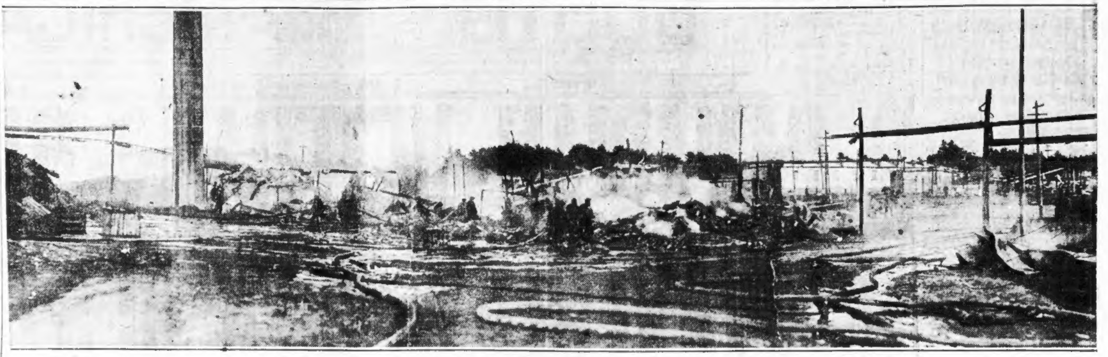
"However, he wore a brown overcoat and soft hat. I heard no shout for help or sounds of a struggle in the woods, but I did not remain there long enough, as I figure it, for the man to have reached the road. The girls came out almost immediately and I drove away."

It was in the old cellar, near this path, which was a short cut into the centre of Waverley, that Buchanan's trussed-up body was found.

Cologne Zone Rumor Denied

London, April 8.—Foreign Secretary Chamberlain denied in the House of Commons today that the failure of the allies to evacuate the Cologne Zone was due to negotiations for a peace security pact.

AFTER THE SMOKE OF FATAL BLAST AT HANOVER LIFTED



When the smoke of the explosions and fires in the plants of the National Fireworks Company at Hanover cleared away, eighteen buildings were found to have been wiped out, as the panoramic photograph shows. In the centre of the photo was the mixing room where Maynard Goodwin of South Hanover was blown to pieces. Several other persons were injured and men and women were forced to flee for their lives. Buildings eight miles away were rocked by the explosion and sparks started brush fires that extended to Hanover Four Corners.

antiques valued at thousands of dollars, was destroyed. It was owned by Nathaniel Reed of Holyoke and Henry Reed of Lawrence.

Deerfield people whose houses were destroyed or damaged include George Marston, Joseph Rollins, James Clay, Walter Van Horn, Gus Clark and Grant Smith.

At Candia the newly organized fire department, under Chief William H. Barrett, a former captain of the Cambridge fire department, and Deputy Chief Bradford Campbell, former New York fire department member, saved many buildings from destruction during an all-night fight.

At Boscawen, ten miles north of Concord, on the Daniel Webster highway, known as one of the most historic townships in the Merrimack Valley, the fires are again raging fiercely, fanned by the increased wind. Hundreds of acres of hard pine all ready for the market are being destroyed today.

Enormous damage has already been done around Knowlton's Hill and hundreds of citizens are fighting the conflagration.

Bad fires are also reported from Tilton and from Claremont, near the Twist back road.

FARMHOUSE DESTROYED.

A forest fire, said to be of mysterious origin, destroyed the home of John Dubl at Gilmanton, in the western section of the State during the night, driving him and his family into the open for safety.

Bad fires are reported also to be raging at Dover Point, near Dover, while at Nashua a large lot of land owned by Proctor Brothers was burned over.

State Forester John H. Foster announced today that because of the fires the woodlands will be closed and all permits for burning brush will be cancelled unless people are more careful.

It is estimated that at least 2,500 acres of land have been burned over in the last few days.

BACK FIRES MENACING.

In Rhode Island, five dwellings were destroyed, scores of lives threatened, and large areas in six towns of the State burned over by brush fires which were not brought under control by hastily organized corps of firefighters until early today. A number of animals were burned to death in the fires, some of which are believed to have been caused by careless trout fishermen.

In some sections, backfires set under the direction of fire wardens, aggravated the situation when a sudden shift in the wind occurred. Families routed were unable to save anything from their burning homes due to the rapid spread of the flames.

These fires occurred in East Greenwich, West Greenwich, Warwick, West Warwick, Coventry and Smithfield. All except the latter town are in the southern portion of the State.

More than 2,000 acres of timber were burned over at Marlboro before volunteer fire fighters checked the flames which were rapidly advancing on a score of dwellings.

More than a hundred volunteer workers joined the fire department at Whitinsville and aided in fighting a fire which broke out in the Prospect Hill district. The progress of the flames was checked after 800 acres of timberland had been burned over.

Natick firemen fought a wood fire which spread over three square miles of territory after starting in Woodland street. Numerous piles of cordwood were burned up and many volunteers reported to help the firemen.

PATRIARCH TIKHON IS DEAD IN RUSSIA

Moscow, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Patriarch Tikhon, formerly head of the orthodox church of all Russia and a prisoner of the Soviet until June, 1923, on charges of counter-revolution, died today after a brief illness.

FIREMEN HONOR MEMORY OF CHAPLAIN

Eighty-five firemen, headed by Fire Commissioner Glynn and Chief Sennott, about 100 priests from various parts of the diocese and delegations from the Holy Name Society and Knights of Columbus joined in honoring the memory of Rev. Maurice Flynn, senior curate of St. Patrick's Church, Roxbury, whose funeral services were held in that church today.

Father Flynn, who was known unofficially as the chaplain of the fire department, died at the home of his mother, Mrs. Catherine Flynn, at No. 76 Forest street, Roxbury.

When the cortege left the home the apparatus of Engine 12, across from the church, was pulled out and bells tolled while the firemen of the company stood at attention as the funeral party entered the church.

The same tribute was paid Father Flynn by the officers of Ladder 4, on Dudley street, and Engine 23, on Northampton street, as the cortege traversed those thoroughfares.

The church was crowded during the solemn high mass, sung by the Rev. James M. Daly of Arlington, hundreds standing outside during services. The Rev. John Flynn of Everett was deacon and the Rev. Maurice J. Flynn of Jamaica Plain sub-deacon. The Rev. Joseph F. Fitzgibbons of Winchester was master of ceremonies. All are cousins of the late Father Flynn.

RUTH TO PLAY

trip games against the Dodgers. But you know how it is with that boy.

"Like as not, he will insist on playing on Sunday in Brooklyn, and his physicians in New York will give him an 'O. K.' and he'll put on a uniform.

"He certainly will be in the Yankee lineup when the club opens the season next Tuesday against the Washington Senators."

But the Babe's medical advisers made it plain that they disagreed with the pilot of the New York Americans.

Ruth's present illness dates back several days. He caught a severe cold in Atlanta. It culminated here and the climax undoubtedly was brought on as a result of the strenuous ride here from Knoxville, Tenn.

The trip through the mountains of Tennessee and North Carolina was a hard one for even the thoroughly well athletes of the two teams. At that, not a few of the boys suffered mild attacks of train sickness as the cars whisked around many and sudden bends in the mountainous trail.

The rough trip, according to Ruth, made him feel worse than the cold and the Home Run King declares this caused him to collapse. In any event, when he collapsed on the station platform he would have toppled to the ground had not Catcher Steve O'Neill been near and saved him from falling.

After spending eighteen hours in bed, Ruth was reconciled to leaving the team and going direct to New York for a rest. Ruth and Scout Paul Kritchell, if they leave as per the present schedule, are due to arrive in New York Thursday.

HANOVER BLAST DUE TO TINY SPARK

That a spark caused by friction was responsible for the explosion and fire which destroyed 18 buildings of the National Fireworks Company at West Hanover and caused one death, is the opinion of Deputy State Fire Marshal Timothy C. Murphy.

The explosion originated in one small building occupied by Manley Goodwin, a powder mixer, Murphy found. Because Goodwin was killed by the blast, the State experts cannot definitely fix the cause, but believe it was the result of friction.

When the blow-up occurred, Murphy said, Goodwin was mixing saltpetre, sulphur and black powder.

Employes of the fireworks company today, under the direction of George J. Clark, manager of the factory, began cleaning up the debris in an attempt to determine the full extent of the loss.

The fire, which followed the blast in the mixing house of the factory, was not extinguished until early today, while company employes and firemen from West Hanover and other nearby towns fought the flames which burst out at widely scattered points in the ruins.

Arrangements for the funeral of Manley Goodwin, the mixer who was instantly killed when the explosion occurred, are being made today. He is survived by his wife and six children. Mrs. Goodwin is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pierce of No. 122 Central avenue, Chelsea.

Plans for reopening the plant immediately are being rushed by Mr. Clark. Although the factory suffered heavy damage, the manager said he did not believe the plant would be shut down for more than a week.

was contained in the concluding sentence:

"Our association has voted unanimously and absolutely against giving any consideration to your demands."

The heads of the painters' unions said this morning that 79 independent master painters, not affiliated with the Painting and Decorating Employers' Association or the Building Trades Employers' Association, had signed up for two years at the $1.25 an hour rate.

They are employing about 700 union men, it was claimed, and will in the course of a few days employ about 1,300.

The Building Trades Employers' Association executive committee went into conference at the City Club today.

Representatives of 5,000 building trade laborers meet tonight, and the United Building Trades Council meets tomorrow night.

The latter meeting is particularly important, in view of the resumption of sessions tomorrow by the arbitration committee of fourteen, appointed last Saturday.

Meanwhile, officers of the striking unions have made a tour of jobs in the vicinity of Boston, where the work is being done by Boston contractors and have ordered the men off the jobs. Among those hit was the new courthouse at Lowell, where the electricians quit.

Representatives of both fractions in the disagreement are reticent on the situation. It is believed, however, that the employers will stand firm in their determination to refuse any wage increases.

One Boston contractor is reported to have engaged fifty non-union painters to complete some emergency work left when the union painters walked out after Saturday's meeting without notice.

CHAPTER XV.

LEAVING Scotland always meant regrets because of the happy days spent there, but an ocean voyage homeward had its compensations and we looked forward to the sail Westward. After saying goodbye to the moors, we invariably spent a week in London. While there, Mamma stayed most of the time with Vivien (Lady Decies), who had a large estate called Sefton Park, near the metropolis.

This is a beautiful place and Gloria and I always adored going there and getting away from London, a city for which we did not care. At Sefton Park we had leads of fun watching the cows being milked and feeding the large herd of tame deer without which no English country estate is complete.

The day before sailing, mamma would send us to Southampton to board the steamship a night in advance so that we would be settled before the crowds flocked aboard.

Beer for Seasick

What a time we had if the voyage was smooth! If it was at all rough, Fraulein Shacko would succumb immediately to seasickness and that would start the rest of us. Although she was a very poor sailor, she believed implicitly that lobster salad, sauerkraut and beer were a certain cure for seasickness and she never failed to order these, three times a day, regardless of how miserably she felt.

Although I was born on a yacht, I must say that I do not feel at my best in rough weather. The sensation of standing on your feet one moment and on your head the next does not strongly appeal to me. Mamma, on the other hand, was a splendid sailor and never complained no matter how rough it grew. Papa and the boys were the same, having accustomed themselves to the sea by numerous voyages on the yacht.

But the time lost while I lay on my back because of the unruly ocean I amply made up when it was calm. We always met numerous children on board and we spent the days playing games with them. This would give us huge appetites and when the stewar served soup and sandwiches at 1 o'clock in the morning, we would have some first on the starbour side of the deck, hurriedly consume that, and rush over to the port side to have some more. This performance was repeated on each deck not only in the morning, but also in the afternoon when tea was served.

Her First Romance

When we tired of playing ta and hide-and-seek, we used to up to the sun deck and play shuffleboard and quoits.

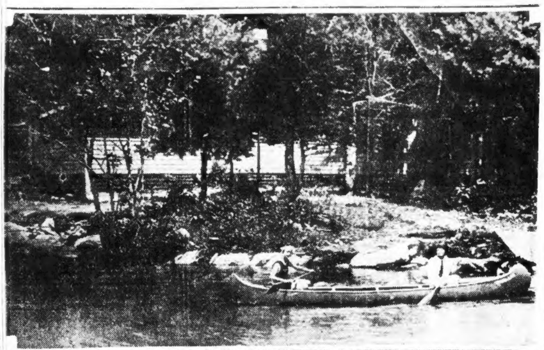
LOVE NEST AT GROVER CAMP IN MAINE



On top is his camp at Casco Bay, Maine, where Lyndon V. Grover, wealthy Lynn shoe manufacturer, says his wife and Paul Monte, the co-respondent, were together. Mrs. Grover, seen in knickers in the canoe with one of her daughters, testified that she and Monte were in separate camps. Below, Paul Monte, Winthrop man, who is waiting to testify in the case.

London Stays Up to Hear KDKA Dance Music

London, April 8.—A lot of mericans and Britishers slept ate this morning, having been up ost of the night in the hope of eing able to dance by music roadcast by the radio station KDKA, Pittsburgh. The music was picked up in one of the larger estaurants, but the strains came ither too loud or too faintly.

The first tunes began coming n at 1 o'clock this morning, and everal hundred guests stayed on nd on, to hear what is claimed o be the first public wireless concert from the United States given n London.

ULLER GIVES TROPHY FOR CANOE CONTESTS

Governor Fuller today presented o the American Canoe Association, astern Division, the trophy to be ontested for at the annual meet ext July at Onset. At the State louse at the time of the presentation were Vice-Commodore Clarence B. Benedict, Purser J. Goddard Page and Vice-Chairman Leo Thomas of the planning committee.

PAJAMA-CLAD CO-EDS DRIVEN OUT BY FIRE

Syracuse, N. Y., April 8.—Fifteen Syracuse University co-eds in filmy attire fled into the streets early today when fire broke out on the third floor of McChesney cottage, No. 209 University place.

Heroism of Miss Betty Baskin saved the lives of other students, firemen stated.

CITY SOLICITOR O WOBURN QUITS JOB

William H. Henchey, city solicitor of Woburn, resigned today. He gave as his reason the pressure of his private law practice. No successor has been selected.

OPERA SINGER LAID TO REST AT HULL

Madame Bernice De Pasquali, American opera favorite, whom Italians described as "the greatest singer among musicians and the greatest musician among singers," was laid to rest today in a spot overlooking Hull Bay, the broad Atlantic and scenes of her girlhood.

Madame Pasquali's mother and brother, who live in Hull, were chief mourners. Hundreds attended the funeral. Services were held in St. Mary of the Bay Church.

Madame Pasquali died in Lord Lister Hospital, Omaha. In death she was not forgotten by friends who had been thrilled by her exquisite voice and charming personality. Also present at the last rites were old-time natives of Hull who remembered Bernice as a girl romping down to meet her father, a sea captain.

Madame Pasquali was born in 1873 in Hull and began her career in music at the age of nine. Many today recalled the child prodigy of that time and the later star coloratura soprano of the Metropolitan Opera House. She became the wife of Count Salvatore De Pasquali, an Italian nobleman. She was to have sung the principal role in the new opera, "St. Cecilia," her patron saint, in Rome next September.

'LULA' GIRL OF MYSTERY IN GROVER SUIT

Salem, April 8.—The name of a mysterious Lula, presumably a girl of youth and beauty, entered the Grover case today.

Mrs. Eleanor Grover, former actress and wife of Lyndon V. Grover, a Lynn millionaire, testified that she once accused him of impropriety with "Lula" and he did not make any spirited denial.

Her attention being called to the so-called "pajama party," she said that when her husband learned of it he told her that the man he names as co-respondent, Paul Monte, must marry Dorothy Cleveland, her daughter, or he would sue her for divorce and name Monte in his petition.

In connection with that party, and all others mentioned by her husband in his suit for divorce, she denied misconduct.

She said she never accompanied "Monte" on a New York boat, but occupied a stateroom with a Mrs. Sawyer.

At the Casco Bay camp, she said, she and Monte lived in cottages well removed from each other and were not intimately associated.

Mrs. Grover sues for separate maintenance and Grover for absolute divorce.

"Monte," who insists he is ready to prove his identity as Vicomte Paul Anatole Leon Monte, was the cynosure of all feminine eyes both outside the court and during testimony. He arrived in a snappy roadster of high power and was nattily clad.

HINT FARE BOOST ON TRAINS

Hustis of B. & M. Says Motor Vehicles Are Cutting Into Revenue

The public is beginning to realize that motor vehicles drawing on the full fare railroad travel but leaving the low rate passengers to be carried by the railroads is likely to lead to higher fares or restricted service, said President Hustis of the Boston & Maine at the annual meeting of the stockholders' body.

"When the true significance of this development is understood," he said, "public opinion will insist on a just solution.

"There is a field for both the bus and the truck, but whenever these agencies, operating without much regard to cost, take traffic from essential railroad lines, which could be equally well handled on those lines, the result is to increase the expense of handling the remaining railroad traffic."

President Hustis pictured a hopeful outlook for the railroad, declaring that with the cooperation of security holders in making possible a "satisfactory adjustment of the heavy maturities on the next few years, and provision of the new capital which the property required, there is real ground for hope."

"It is expected," he said, "that the financial results will continue, provided that no serious adverse conditions develop."

4 ROBBERS TAKE SHOES STOCKINGS

Police Later Arrest Alleged Culprits, Who Are Held in $2,000 Each

Much can come out of missing a train and few can tell the consequences. Great stories have been hung on incidents more trivial and strange things have happened like Edward McAndrews losing everything but his trousers.

There is solace for [illegible] in everything except maybe a quarrel with love, and Eddy was thankful for the trousers because then he could go over to the East Dedham street station and [illegible] about the laugh.

Eddy gave of his clothing until it hurt, after missing a train for Billerica. He gave also of what money he had. But the judge gave his four strangers bail of $2,000 each today and the address of the Grand Jury, which evened it up some.

Eddy, who is a railroad worker living at the Railroad Y. M. C. A. near the North Station, was off his beat last night and drifted into a dance in Northampton street, South End.

MISSES TRAIN.

Then he decided he would go home to his mother's in Billerica. He missed the train, however, and decided to find a room in the South End.

There was only one more bit of dealing to be left Eddy and that was passing out a half dollar to four men who asked him for same in front of the Grand Opera House.

They offered to show him to a rooming house, where there were nice clean beds, but instead they led the way to the Randolph street playground in Albany street. Then they jumped him.

SHOES TAKEN.

When he got through giving he was down to his trousers, without even shoes or stockings.

Painfully he made his way to the East Dedham street station, where Patrolmen McGeever, Banks and Tiernan, recognizing the descriptions of the assailants as those of four South End loiterers, corralled Charles F. Glynn of Rose street, South End; William Rye of Mansfield, John Carley of William street, Melrose, and John R. Murphy of No. 61 Shawmut avenue.

In court today they were each held in $2,000 for the Grand Jury, charged with robbery.

Wife Sentences Husband to Buy Her Easter Hat

Atlantic City, N. J., April 8.—Recorder [illegible] today gave Mrs. [illegible] Brooks the privilege of sentencing her husband when he was in court charged with striking her and also intoxication.

"Let him stay in jail until Saturday morning and then he is to buy me a new hat for Easter," was Mrs. Brooks' verdict.

Judgment was approved and so ordered.

LIBERTY SPARK PLUG SECURITIES ARE BARRED

The State Department of Public Utilities today barred the sale of the securities of the Liberty Spark Plug Corporation of No. 40 Hanover street. The commission is of the opinion that the sale of the securities "is fraudulent or would result in fraud."

The registration of James J. Connolly of No. 18 Olmstead street, Jamaica Plain, as a salesman of securities was revoked. The department says Connolly failed to furnish information called for under the "Blue Sky" act.

MADE LOVE BY SPECIAL RADIO

Marconi Had Sets in His Yacht and at Home of the Girl He Hopes to Wed

London, April 8.—The Daily Express says today that when it questioned Mrs. George Paynter of Bosquenna, about the engagement of her daughter, Elizabeth, to Guglielmo Marconi, she replied, "Nothing definite can be said yet, whatever may be made known in the future."

Marconi is said to be an intimate friend of Miss Paynter's father, Col. George Camborne Beauclerk Paynter, commander of the Scots Guards. He has been a frequent visitor at Basquenna, where he installed a radio receiving set which enabled him to talk to the family from the Electra.

The Express comments on the beauty of Miss Paynter, describing her as a "splendid example of country girlhood." She is to make her debut at court during the coming Summer.

Marconi, according to the Express, is now aboard his yacht Electra at Gibraltar, and but for illness would have been at the Paynter home yesterday to celebrate the eighteenth birthday of Miss Elizabeth, whom he has known since she was fourteen years of age.

HINDENBURG IS URGED TO RUN BY EX-KAISER

Hanover, Germany, April 8 (I.N.S.)—It was a private message from the exiled Kaiser Wilhelm that it was the "only way to save the nation" which influenced Field Marshal Von Hindenburg to reconsider his decision and decide to become a candidate for President April 26, it was said here today.

Additional influence was said to be the insistent argument of Admiral Von Tirpitz that Hindenburg was "the only man able to defeat Marx," the Republican.

WAR NURSE PRAISES "EMANCIPATOR"

Mrs. Mary E. Smith of Lowell, attending G. A. R. auxiliary convention in Boston, tells of seeing Lincoln shot by Booth in Ford's Theatre. She also was personally thanked by the President when he visited a base hospital at Baltimore where she was stationed.

JEWISH FEAST OF PASSOVER BEGINS TODAY

Passover, the annual celebration of the emancipation of the Israelites from the Egyptians, will being at sundown tonight and last eight days.

The first and last two days are observed in the synagogues and temples and in the home by "sedars," extremely ceremonious and richly symbolical. Many Jews of strict orthodox nature abstain from labor during these four days.

At the setting of the sun tonight multitudes will flock to the synagogues and temples to uphold the ritual ceremonies of Pesach. Upon the return home the "sedar" will be held with the entire family seated around the table. Then the patriarch begins his great message of the deliverance of the Jew. He sings the "Haggadah" and asks the "Four Questions." In most cases the family has been assembled from all corners of the country, for to celebrate this feast correctly a reunion of all the members is necessary.

Passover is perhaps the greatest holiday in Jewish history for it not only commemorates the exodus of the Israelites from Egypt into the Promised Land and the deliverance of the Jew from Egyptian bondage, but it carries with it all the glamor and glory of festivity associated with life and liberty for the Jew.

VETERAN NURSE RECALLS DEATH OF LINCOLN

To most of us, Abraham Lincoln is but the name of one of history's most heroic figures. But to Mrs. Mary E. Smith of Lowell, Lincoln is a reality.

She was in the theatre on the night John Wilkes Booth killed the man who had welded a nation. She remembers vividly the martyred President as he walked through the wards of the hospital where she was stationed, to cheer and comfort the wounded.

Mrs. Smith is attending the State conference of the G. A. R. Auxiliary meeting in conjunction with the State encampment of the veteran body.

"I remember the night Lincoln was shot as well as if it were yesterday," said Mrs. Smith. "I was sitting just below the President's box watching the play. Suddenly we heard a scream and Booth jumped from the box onto the stage.

"I didn't hear a shot. There was a noise but it was kind of muffled. The first thing we heard was Mrs. Lincoln's scream.

Among Mrs. Smith's cherished recollections of the war is the occasion when Lincoln visited her ward in Jarvis United States General Hospital, Baltimore, Md. It was there that she shook hands with him and had the pleasure of hearing him say: "After the war I shall be able to tell you Northern women how wonderful you are."

Mrs. Smith is nearly eighty-five years of age, yet her recollection of those days is clear. She keeps up with the present day problems and is interested in all that goes on, but she does not forget that the veterans of the Civil War are her world. Her husband and brothers were killed fighting side by side with some of those who are attending the present encampment. She hopes she will be able to attend next year's encampment, because she hasn't missed one yet.

BETS TAXI LINE AGAINST CAFE IN WEDDING PACT

Metuchen, N. J., April 8.—A taxicab business was wagered against a restaurant business here today as the stakes in a bet that the owner could get married within thirty-six hours although he has no prospective bride nor woman friend. The wager was made a signed agreement before Alfred D. Hyde, a notary public.

The wager resulted from Patrick Kreps, owner of the taxi business, being joked about his single state by William A. Eichbaum, restaurant owner, when Kreps went there for breakfast today.

MILLIONAIRE ALLEGES WOMAN KIDNAPED HIM

New York, April 8.—Samuel Lautenbach, wealthy knit goods manufacturer, told police of an attempt to kidnap him and hold him prisoner in a Hoboken, N. J., hotel until members of the kidnaping band had a chance to cash checks aggregating $40,000 which he said he would have been compelled to sign had he not frustrated the attempt.

Lautenbach reported the incident after the arrest of Helen S. Brandon, forty-five, on his complaint on charges of robbery. Lautenbach charged Miss Brandon with instigating the kidnaping plot after a previous extortion attempt.

Spring Surely Here Swanboats in Public Garden

Spring has sure enough arrived.

The famous swan boats have made their appearance for the season on lagoon in the Public Gardens, a sure sight that Spring and warm weather are at hand.

The boats, resplendent in new paint, were filled to capacity with children during the first day of their appearance.

PARENTS GET CLEW TO BABY STOLEN 3 YEARS AGO

New York, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Police reopened their investigation today into the disappearance of Baby Lillian McKenzie, who vanished from her perambulator in front of a Sixth avenue department store in August, 1922. She was then three months old. Reports that the child may have been found, living as the adopted daughter of a childless couple in New Jersey, gave Mr. and Mrs. Peter McKenzie, her parents, and detectives who had worked for months on the case renewed hope.

HUSBAND HAS 7 WIVES LIVING, BRIDE CHARGES

Chicago, April 8.—Ralph Marks, according to Mrs. Agnes Marks, who believes herself to be wife No. 6 of the dark-haired young man against whom she swore out a warrant, promised happiness to each of his alleged seven mates.

In her case, Mrs. Marks declared, the marital happiness lasted two months. Then Ralph disappeared from his Chicago home to appear as bridegroom at his wedding to Ellen Enstrom, twenty-four, allegedly his seventh wife.

Chicago, April 8 (I.N.S.).—Spiritualists are looking forward to the day [illegible] sets and "listen in" on the broadcasting of the [illegible].

This is the [illegible] of spirit messages [illegible], which Madam [illegible] Chicago medium, predicted today at the annual convention of the Spiritualists' Association, adding: "If we imperfect mediums [illegible] the spiritual [illegible] waves and receive communications from the other side, why shouldn't the perfectly attuned radio instrument accomplish it?"

LINER CELTIC OPENS SEASON NEXT SUNDAY

The White Star Line steamship Celtic, assigned to the Boston service to Queenstown and Liverpool, will make her first sailing of the season on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock from Commonwealth Pier, South Boston. Fifty first, seventy-five second and 100 third class passengers will embark here. The Celtic will be followed on April 26 by the Cedric, and thereafter they will sail at fortnightly intervals throughout the year.

Women Will Have Own "Smoker" on Train

Chicago, April 8.—A special room in which women may chat and smoke will be provided on a car to be added by the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railroad to the Olympian Express between here and Seattle, the management has announced.

The car also will contain a new type of sleeping quarters.

SOUTHERN PLAYERS OFFER TO AID LEGION CARNIVAL

An offer has been received from the "The Plantation Company," a southern theatrical company, by the [illegible] Post, the Boston [illegible] post of the American Legion, to stage its production in aid of the drive which the post is now conducting for the raising of a guarantee fund for the big [illegible] boxing carnival, which the post is to hold at Braves Field [illegible] for disabled veterans and widows of veterans. The production is a [illegible] of southern life with a singing, dancing and musical program, with a setting of southern scenery.

TURK PRINCE TO WED LADY DOUGLASS

Divorced Wife of Sholto Engaged to Pretender to Sultanate

Paris, April 8 (Universal).—Lady Sholto Douglas, divorced wife of Lord Douglas, whose matrimonial adventures occupied the press of the European and American continents for years—he was the former husband of Loretta Mooney of San Francisco, while she was for many years prominent in New York, Newport and elsewhere—will marry on April 23 Prince Haniddin, son of Abdul Hamid, former sultan of Turkey.

The prince is pretender to the throne of Turkey. The marriage will be first solemnized under Mohammedan rites at the Paris mosque, and afterward at the British consulate. During the Mohammedan ceremony Lady Douglas will be obliged to wear the traditional veils. Lady Douglas is enormously wealthy.

Fat Men's Club Puts on Extra 3,416 Pounds

A ton and a half and 416 pounds for good measure were initiated into the Fat Men's Club at its meeting in the American House. Fourteen new members, averaging 244 pounds, were admitted.

"Do you know, this club of ours, is threatened, as time goes on, to become less exclusive each year, for men are becoming more contented and are accordingly growing fatter," Carl F. Shaw, president of the club, told the members.

Her father was a Dutch millionaire.

Another secret marriage leaked out today when it became known that Mrs. Mildred Ronalds is already married to John Curley of Boston, although the ceremony was originally set for next Saturday. Mrs. Ronalds divorced her husband only a few days before his death last year.

Military Ball on April 17 Has International Aspect

Brilliant Uniforms of Canada and Argentina Will Mix With Those of Uncle Sam

Betty Alden

THERE promises to be an international flavor to the Military Ball scheduled for April 17 next at the Hotel Somerset. Of course there will be a brave display of the peace time uniforms of Uncle Sam's forces on land and sea.

A TRIO OF NAVAL OFFICERS of the Argentine Navy now on their ships in local waters have accepted invitations and will add to the blaze of colors and decorations. They are Captain Filipe Filess, Captain Arturo Cueto and Commander R. P. Moaisce, and from the equally friendly North will come Sir Thomas Tait and Lady Tait of Montreal.

OFFICERS OF HIGH RANK from hereabouts, with their wives, have accepted invitations, which is the annual affair given by the some eighteen hundred officers who comprise the Military Order of the World War, so far as the Boston Chapter is concerned.

REAR ADMIRAL Louis De Steiguer of the Navy yard, and Mrs. De Steiguer, General John H. Sherburne and Mrs. Sherburne, Major-General Andre W. Brewster and Brigadier John D. Barrette and Mrs. Barrette will be there.

THE PATRONESS list carries many a name of high degree, wives of well-known Bostonians who served the cause of the Allies during the War. There are Mesdames Thorndike Dudley Howe, Walter M. Pratt, Leverett Saltonstall, Theodore L. Storer, C. Sinclair Weeks, Pierpont L. Stackpole and Eben S. Draper.

ALSO Mrs. Charles P. Greenough, 2d; Mrs. Richard K. Hale, Mrs. Robert W. Emmons, 2d; Mrs. Nathaniel Ayer, Mrs. Walter I. Badger, Jr.; Mrs. Malvern Hill Barnum, Mrs. Ralph Bradley and Mrs. L. Vernon Briggs to cull but a few.

WITH THE ADVENT of the warm season, Mr. and Mrs. John Mitchell (Elizabeth Caswell) will forsake their plantation down in Cuba and come northward to the Shore for the Summer months. They have taken a house at Beverly Farms and are due to arrive soon after June *.

Photograph by Bachrach.

MRS. JOHN MITCHELL is to be a North Shore hostess this Summer. She and Mr. Mitchell will come North from their Cuban Plantation about June 1st. Mrs. Mitchell was Miss Elizabeth Caswell, a belle and beauty of the Boston Young Set.

OF COURSE, Mrs. Mitchell's hosts of friends in the Younger Set will welcome her with open arms. In her Elizabeth Caswell days she enjoyed an unusual popularity, not one whit lessened by her wide reputation as a beauty par excellence.

HER'S IS THE exquisite blonde type, the golden haired, blue-eyed loveliness that Greuze has made immortal in his canvases. Many lamentations were heard when it became known that her marriage to John Mitchell would take her away from the Circle here wherein she moved so gracefully.

THE MITCHELLS spend their Winters at "La China," as Mr. Mitchell's plantation down in Cuba is called. Summer, however, usually finds them taking lively part in the North Shore-Myopia gayeties.

OF COURSE, any mention of Mrs. Mitchell immediately brings to mind that the seal of Royal approval as a dancing partner was put upon her by the Prince of Wales. He sought her out again and yet again, when Mrs. John Lawrence gave the now historic dinner-dance for his Highness.

MRS. JOHN CASWELL, mother of Mrs. Mitchell, has been at her place, Round Plain Farm, at the North Shore for a month or more, and will probably put in a long season there. Or at least until that young cosmopolite, Harold Vanderbilt, puts in his annual appearance.

HE AND HIS handsome yacht, the "Vagrant," have become happy fixtures in the brilliant whirl of Midsummer life up along the exclusive North Shore. Usually he takes over Round Plain Farm from Mrs. Caswell, brings over horses and motors and sets up his bachelor menage for some weeks.

WHEN THE New York and the Eastern Yacht Clubs make their cruises to the eastward Mr. Vanderbilt and the "Vagrant" are always in the vanguard of the smart galaxy, and both afloat and ashore he plays the host in gallant fashion for his hosts of friends.

SPEAKING further of the Caswells, Mr. and Mrs. William Watson Caswell, uncle and aunt of Mrs. Mitchell on the paternal side have been away from their Bostonian circle for some time, traveling in leisurely way about Europe for nearly a year.

I HEAR THAT they are expected back some time in the Midsummer, but not in time to witness this Season's supreme achievement, the Cabaret for the Infants' Hospital, in which Mrs. Caswell in other years has been a moving spirit.

FROM ALL accounts, Mrs. Theodore Frothingham, Mrs. Samuel Eliot and Mrs. Oliver Ames, Jr., are outdistancing all their previous achievements for this particular charity and will wind up the Town Season in a perfect blaze of glory with their Cabaret on May Day night at the Copley-Plaza.

MRS. CHARLES F. RICHMOND and her daughter, Miss Lucia Richmond, have been in New York, guests at the Hotel Chatham. Miss Richmond and her mother are adding some fetching creations to the Spring wardrobes in anticipation of Miss Richmond's presentation, set for May Day at the Country Club.

THE BUD-ELECT is a charming girl, lissom and blonde. Plans for a formal debut early in the season just ended were already on the tapis but had to be abandoned owing to a family bereavement. She is a granddaughter of the late Ex-Governor Douglas, and the family home is in Brookline.

GENERAL John H. Sherburne and Mrs. Sherburne also have been guests at the Chatham. Mr. and Mrs. Allan Forbes, en route North from a Midwinter stay at Aiken, have been Chatham guests.

MORE TANGLES IN ENGLISH SOCIETY

Titled Ladies and Gentlemen Seek the Severance of Marriage Bonds

London, April 8 (I.N.S.)—Society love tangles are likely to be untangled soon in the London courts, it was reported today. Viscount Gort, a lieutenant-colonel of the Grenadier Guards and holder of the Victoria Cross for bravery in war, has informed his friends he intends to sue for divorce. The viscountess was formerly Corinne Vereker.

It was also reported that Lady Kitty Vincent, an authoress and a sister of the Earl of Airlie, will bring a divorce action against Brigadier-General Sir Birkley Vincent.

Captain F. R. Eustace, son of Sir Francis Eustace, has been divorced, his wife charging that Eustace went away with the wife of his business partner.

WIFE DIVORCES AVIATOR HARMON

Bridgeport, Ct., April 8.—The divorce of an aviatrix from an aviator today caused some stir in the fashionable Indian Harbor section of Greenwich, home of Louise Benedict Harmon, who won her decree on the ground of desertion.

Mrs. Harmon is the daughter of the late Commodore Benedict, intimate friend of President Cleveland, and had the distinction of being the first woman to make an aeroplane flight in New York and the second woman to make one anywhere.

To Win More Friends
100 Lucky Strikes
TAX FREE

We invite every smoker in this city to take advantage of this startling offer. We've told you about Lucky Strike superiority. Your friends have told you. Now know for yourself the value of the toasting process! We make this proposition to win more friends:

The regular price of a tin of 100 Lucky Strikes is 75¢
You pay the dealer only 45¢
We pay the Government Tax of 30¢
Act Quickly, as the dealer's allotment at this price is limited.
Get one tin [only one to a person] for home or for office.
The regular price will be in effect when the dealer's supply on this offer is sold.

Smoke these 100 Lucky Strikes. Then you'll know how the 45-minute toasting process adds to the flavor and improves the taste.

LUCKY STRIKE

IT'S TOASTED

Facts About Taxes on Cigarettes

TO the general public, we believe it will be surprising to learn that nearly half of what they pay for cigarettes goes to the government for taxes.

The internal revenue stamp on a package of twenty Lucky Strike cigarettes costs you six cents. On a 75c tin of one hundred the revenue stamp costs you thirty cents.

So nearly one half of what you pay for cigarettes is spent by you for taxes.

This is certainly the heaviest tax on an article of daily and universal consumption.

The Tobacco Industry and Taxes

The aggregate tax paid by the tobacco business is with one exception, income taxes, the largest item of internal revenue the federal government receives. Last (fiscal) year it amounted to $309,014,050.84.

Of this enormous amount of money the cigarette industry paid $182,715,735.93, or nearly two-thirds of the total tax paid by the entire tobacco business.

We believe you will appreciate that when nearly fifty cents of every dollar paid by you for cigarettes goes to the government, you must receive in cigarettes a value in return for your money that is rarely given in any commodity.

That the public appreciates this great value is shown by the enormous increase in the consumption of cigarettes.

Our reasons for this tax free offer

We know this offer induces men to try Lucky Strikes—it "Wins More Friends."

We know that a large percentage of those who get acquainted with Lucky Strikes adopt them.

This isn't philanthropy nor propaganda—just good business, as you'll agree.

The offer is limited. We cannot afford to keep it up.

We make it generous, to attract attention.

Super-quality

Only by immense volume can we produce such an aristocratic cigarette as Lucky Strike at such a democratic price.

Its quality is supreme because it has that costly extra process, toasting, which improves the flavor and adds to the taste of even the finest tobaccos that are used in Lucky Strikes.

Cleanliness and Care in Manufacture

Every Lucky Strike factory is a model of sanitation. Read how Alfred W. McCann, the noted food expert, describes one of our factories: "White walls and ceilings, floors as clean as freshly chiseled marble, cutting machines and wrapping machines that take away from the human hand all detail and leave nothing to the human supervision but the watchfulness of trained eyes."

CHICAGO CRIME RING ON BASIS OF BUSINESS

Profit of $77,000 in Month; City, State and Federal Probes Under Way

Chicago, April 8 (Universal)—The State's Attorney's office today joined forces with the Chicago police and the Federal government in the war on the systematized crime trust uncovered by the police in a raid on elaborate offices at No. 2138 Michigan avenue.

Assistant State's Attorney William P. McSwiggan was sent to the Detective Bureau to inspect the books and papers seized in the raid in which the police found what they declare to be the most deeply ramified and most flagrant crime organization ever uncovered in Chicago.

All crime activities, the police declare, were handled exactly as though they were legitimate businesses, with a double entry system of bookkeeping, card indices and a system like that in a bank.

"The books we uncovered," said John Stege, captain of detectives, showed that this 'business' made a net profit of $77,000 last month. They had on hand on April 4 a total of forty-four drums of alcohol and they had records of everything.

CHAPMAN NEVER MARRIED, SAYS COUNSEL

Report Started by Boy Whose Father, Now Missing, Had Same Name

Hartford, April 8.—State's Attorney Hugh M. Alcorn today expressed an opinion that Mrs. Charles Trier of Lancaster, Pa., is not a former wife of Gerald Chapman.

Attorney Nathan O. Freedman of Chapman defense counsel, declared Chapman has no wife in Lancaster, and so far as he knows, has none anywhere else. Mr. Freedman said that during the progress of Chapman's trial he received a letter from Mrs. Trier, but thought so little of it that the letter was destroyed.

The boyish fancy of Charles Thomas Chapman, eleven-year-old son of Mrs. Trier, that the bandit might be his father because of the similarity of names, is said to have started the report that the criminal was her first husband.

Mrs. Trier, it appears, first married Thomas Armstrong Chapman in Philadelphia in 1908 and divorced him five years later.

STARS AT AMERICAN PARTY

Stage stars and amateurs joined in celebrating the first birthday anniversary of the Boston Evening American WNAC Women's Club in the club rooms at the Hearst Building, No. 5 Winthrop square. The top row, left to right, shows Al Raymond of the "Little Jessie James" company (inset; Rella Winn, Frank Presset and Cecil Cunningham of the "Kid Boots" company. Centre row, left to right, shows Ellen Whitmarsh, Marie Ryan and Phyllis Warden, Boston child dancers. Bottom row, left to right, Russell Mack, star of "The Four Flusher," Bernie Go and Ivan Zengler of the "Little Jessie James" company.

Gayly decked in bunting and American flags, palms and a profusion of flowers, the Boston Evening American WNAC Women's Club's first birthday party yesterday afternoon in the club rooms in the Hearst Building, No. 5 Winthrop square, was a gala affair in which professional stars from Boston theatres and amateur talent from the club frolicked in a brilliant array combining to make the occasion a long and well-remembered one.

More than 500 guests were received by Martha Lee and Jean Sargent in the WNAC room and the hostesses were assisted by a staff of Boston Evening American ushers, Elva O'Neil, Marcella Hanrahan, Melda O'Neil, Florence Rotchman and Isabel Howard and by Gladys Gilbo from Shepard broadcasting department.

The program was in charge of Mrs. A. F. Ryan of No. 327 Huntington avenue, a prominent member of the club, and Buddy Stuart of the Fenway Theatre, who was master of ceremonies.

PROGRAM OPENS.

Little Ruth Cater of Chelsea opened the program with a lively monologue in dialect, and was followed by Miss Cecil Cunningham of the "Kid Boots" company, who presented several amusing character songs and skits that were enthusiastically received. Miss Cunningham was accompanied by Frank Tresselt.

Russel Mack, star of "The Four-Flusher" gave songs, jokes and executed some trick steps that kept the audience in an uproar, Walter Travers assisting him on the piano. Miss Bernie Go and Ivan Zengler of "Little Jessie James" gave the next number on the program, and the piquant star sang "Never Again" and executed some nimble steps to Zengler's clever strains on the banjo.

Bennie McLaughlin, by courtesy of the Leo Feist Company, played syncopated strains on the piano that were encored enthusiastically, especially his "Midnight Waltz" number.

The "Kid Boots" company was represented a second time in the afternoon with another of its twinkling stars, Miss Rella Winn, who sang "Just A-Wearyin' for You" and "I Heard You Go By," accompanied by Frank Tresselt. Al Raymond from "Little Jessie James" rocked the audience with mirth in his humorous presentation—"Topics of the Day," in which he impersonated an impassioned political speaker, and other characters.

Mrs. Regina Brown of No. 311 K street, South Boston, sang two solos—"At the End of the Road" and "The World Is Waiting for the Sunrise," with feeling and expression. Little Estelle Taylor, pupil of Veronica Zunino, of Revere, put on a clever acrobatic dance next—followed by Elizabeth Twibell, pupil of Margaret Ryan of East Boston, who did a graceful toe dance and presented a catchy little song.

SCOTCH COMEDIENNE.

Harry Lauder to the life, was impersonated by little Phyllis Warden, a pupil of Ramona Hawkins of Back Bay—who sang and danced, costumed in a Highland garb. The Clarion Cornetists, by courtesy of the Fenway Theatre, delighted the crowd with four numbers, "The N. C. 4 March," "Tell Her in the Springtime," "Recessional," and "Katherina"—the last number led by Caroline B. Nichols, noted woman orchestra leader.

Ellen Whitmarsh, pupil of Margaret Ryan, put on a pretty butterfly dance that was well received, and the afternoon's program was closed by little Marie Ryan, who sang and danced a "Red, White and Blue" number, in which the audience joined in singing.

Refreshments were served, and Mrs. William H. Stewart and Katherine Shepard of the Shepard Broadcasting Station presided over the punch bowl.

Every guest went home bearing souvenir gifts of shopping bags, filled with some of Martha Lee's especially recommended food products, and Radio Handbooks were distributed at the Radio Room by Mrs. Parker.

The crowds of merry guests, the gay troupe of entertainers, and the hospitable hostesses—all joined to make the first birthday party a success. Next Tuesday, April 14, the second of the anniversary parties will be celebrated, and it is expected that the event will rival—if not actually surpass—yesterday's affair.

interesting to European high finance.

French peasants, like other human beings, don't like taxes. Other Frenchmen dislike them, also.

But if the average Frenchman hates the idea of paying heavy income tax, he hates even more bitterly the well-known fact that the very rich escape taxation.

IF HERRIOT goes before the country in a fight to hold his place, stabilize the franc and pay the national debt, he will say to the little Frenchman (little financially): "Support me and I will make the big fortunes pay their share, which they are not paying now." The result may not suit the big fortunes.

UNITED STATES financiers ask Mexico's permission to establish fourteen passenger airplane routes above Mexican territory.

It would be pleasant if some other United States financiers would establish a few passenger airplane routes here in the United States.

This country, where the flying machine was invented, is more backward in flying than any other first-class white nation. And compared with our brothers in Japan, we are nowhere.

NEW RADIO HANDBOOK

ISSUED TO OUR FRIENDS THE RADIO PUBLIC BY THE BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN

If you have a radio set—if you are going to build one or merely considering the matter, you should have one of these new Boston Evening American Radio Handbooks.

A beautiful colored covered book printed on magazine paper.

It is just what the radio fan needs to make radio entertainment more successful and more interesting. The valuable information that is contained in this book will simplify all of the intricacies of radio.

The following is some of the information contained therein:—

A double-page Trouble Chart—with which you can locate any trouble. The cause and the remedy are plotted out for you—this chart is a Radio education in itself.

A dictionary of radio words with definitions of their meanings.

A list of diagram abbreviations with their explanations. Data on antennas, batteries, tubes, phones, loud speakers, grounds, audio transformers, grid leaks, resistance units and condensers.

A list of recent changes in wavelengths and call letters and the laws and regulations governing Broadcasting Stations.

Complete data on the Boston Evening American Four-R set, and there is detailed information on building a Four-R two-tube set. If you have a radio set you will want this Handbook. And you can have it by applying to your Radio Dealer or applying for it at the Radio Department of the Boston Evening American. Get it at once. It is issued to the Radio public with the compliments of the Boston Evening American. It is absolutely free.

HUB CHURCHES BEGIN PASSION SERVICES

Matins Mark Opening of Most Solemn Catholic Services Today

The commemoration of the Passion, the most solemn season in the Christian church year, began today in every Roman Catholic church in the Boston archdiocese as well as throughout the world.

The ceremony of Tenebrae marks the opening of the Passion observance.

The Matins and Lauds of the Divine Office were chanted in the Cathedral of the Holy Cross and other large churches at 8 o'clock. The choir of St. John's Seminary, Brighton, will occupy the cathedral sanctuary for the solemn Tenebrae service. The service will be repeated tomorrow and on Good Friday.

The Tenebrae service consists of psalms and lessons descriptive of the Passion of Christ. Its Latin name is Tenebrae, translated as darkness, because the ceremony progresses with the extinguishing of the sanctuary candles and ends in complete darkness, symbolic of the shadows of Christ's own great sorrow that began on Mt. Olivet and endede with the crucifixion.

Speaking Contest

The annual competition for the Lee Wade and the Boylston elocution prizes at Harvard College will take place in Sanders Theatre at Harvard this evening, starting at 8 o'clock. There will be ten undergraduate speakers.

'RADIO WIDOW' IS TEASER IN LIMERICK

It's not "Where was Moses when the light went out," BUT what happened to Jones when the light went out?

That's what we'd like to know. What is more important to YOU, we will pay $25 to the person submitting the best answer to the question.

Today's "rick" is about a "radio-widow." You've heard of that newest of types. Well, she became disgusted because her husband continued to ignore her when she tried to talk to him about her new ensemble dress that she bought for the Easter parade, so she simply took the earphones off his head.

Of course that started something. Right in the midst of what it started the lights went out; something else happened. We don't know what it was. Your "gray matter" must suppply the answer, if you want that first prize of $25 for a new Easter bonnet. The more answers you send, the better we'll like it. Seven are allowed to each person.

AMERICAN HER BEST PAPER.

Being the mother of ten children and the adopted "mater" of another does not prevent Mrs. J. A. Woodland of Fells Court, Melrose, from taking part in the Boston Evening American's daily limerick tournament.

She writes: "I have been sick and have also had lots of sickness in my family of late, and although I am the mother of ten children and the adopted mother of another, I still find time to read the 'best paper' ever; best, because it is always first to help all who need help and also first to help round up fellows who need to be behind the bars for the safety of womanhood. I also find time to compose 'last lines' for your interesting limericks."

Frank C. Carlyle of Congress Street, Portland, Me., is happy because he has equaled his daughter by winning a $1 prize in the tourney.

He says: "I wish to express the gratification which I felt when I saw my name among the winners. It places me on even terms with my daughter, who is an ardent limerick fan. The limericks are to us a source of great enjoyment yet they are only one of the many pleasures derived from reading the Boston Evening American. I have long admired the stand taken by the Hearst Papers in upholding the sacred rights of the people, and their just condemnation of all that stands for fraud and deceit."

TELLS STORY IN VERSE.

Miss Grace R. Coughlin of Albin Street, Concord, N. H., says hers with poetry as follows:

Dear Limerick-Man, I hasten
To send my thanks to thee,
For last line "27"
'Bout the student 'cross the sea.

Your contest has converted me
Into a Limerick Fan;
It's the first thing that I look for
In the whole American.

Now dad must scan the first page,
Giving news from everywhere;
Ma makes a dive for "Sheba"
And the family Morris chair.

To read Priscilla Price's hints
Big sister never fails;
Then Marie Jeritza tells us
How we should shape our nails.

Of course, without these little tips,
We'd get so very lax;
And by the way, we'd simply die
Without "Dear Miss Fairfax."

She answers all our problems,
And, in fact, decides our fate;
She helps us with our love-letters
Which we write—(in triplicate)?

But we never would consider
That we'd read the paper, quite,
Until we saw where Mr. Jiggs
Could NOT go out that night.

Now I'm sending in a line on painted
Knees that Portland scores—
And thanking you again, I am
Limerick-ally yours.

WOMEN OBTAIN RELIEF WORKING ON PUZZLES

Some Find It Good Mental Exercise, Others Say It Makes the Time Pass Quickly

Additional evidence of the value of the Boston Evening American's daily crossword tournament continues to reach this newspaper in the form of interesting letters from participants.

Mrs. Olive M. Reams of Green street, Wakefield, writes that she cannot go to bed any night without solving one of them. Her letter follows:—

"Am writing in to say that the crossword puzzles still hold their charm for me. I can't go to bed at night until I've solved one. I am afraid that they are not as neat as others that come to you, but my eyes bother and I have a dreadful numbness in my right hand. For a week or more I had to give them up entirely but am now back on the job and going strong."

WITHOUT ANY HELP.

Mrs. A. B. de la Feuillies of Peck street, Attleboro, is another mother of baby twins who is numbered among the crossword puzzle fans. She writes as follows: "Enclosed please find my solution of today's crossword puzzle. It is just lately that I have taken up this fad and will say that besides being a lot of fun and recreation it shows how little one knows, or perhaps I'd better say how much is forgotten. I've really no idea of winning any prize, as I solved this puzzle without dictionary or encyclopedia.

"I noticed in your paper of a few days ago that a mother of twins won a prize. Well, if the number of children one has will help them to win will say I have six, two boys and four girls and the two youngest are sixteen-months-old twin girls."

KILLS DULL TIMES.

Mrs. Hazel A. Theriault of East Weymouth tells of how she has aided in the following words: "I would like to have you know that crossword puzzles have helped to while away many tedious hours for me this Winter while shut in with sick kiddies. They are also a great educational help. Here's hoping for lots more."

EDITH GOULD'S STORY OF RICH GIRL'S LIFE

aboard ship among children as well as among grown-ups, but these friendships seldom endure after one leaves the steamer. I recollect youngsters who vowed everlasting friendship while crossing the Atlantic and who barely nodded to each other when they met a few days later in New York.

My first romance began and finished that way. We were coming home on the Mauretania in October, 1913. Little did I realize that this was to be my last trip, as the World War began the following Summer, and after the armistice other things prevented my going abroad. I was just twelve years old, and among the children with whom I played was a handsome, dark-haired boy of my age.

When he asked me to stroll around the deck with him I was so thrilled I could have shouted, because I had always looked with envy upon the grown-up couples sauntering, and wondered how long it would be before some young man would ask me to be his companion.

We found each other so interesting that we promised faithfully to go roller sating and play hopscotch together daily in the park the following Winter, but I never saw him again after we left the ship.

FIRE IN INSANE HOSPITAL PUTS PATIENTS IN DANGER

Binghamton, N. Y., April 8.—The Broadmoor Building of the State Hospital was threatened by fire early today, but the flames were extinguished before much damage was done. Many of the patients were unaware that the fire was in progress. The flames were confined to the basement.

NORWOOD VOTES TO ENLARGE HOSPITAL

At a meeting of the Norwood Hospital trustees held in Holman Hall, Norwood, it was announced that the number of beds will be increased from thirty to seventy-five. The plans call for remodeling and the building of a $200,000 addition.

$200,000 VOTED FOR DORCHESTER COURTHOUSE

Dorchester scored another victory in the City Council when Councillor George Gilbody secured passage on the first reading of an order calling for $200,000 for a new courthouse to be located at the corner of Melville avenue and Washington street.

"LARRY" PATON TO BE BURIED NEXT FRIDAY

"Larry" Paton, golf editor of the Boston Herald, who died at St. Elizabeth's Hospital, will be buried Friday afternoon in Danvers, with services at the Community Church and buried in Halpen Cemetery.

Mr. Paton, who was forty-one years old, and lived at No. 10 Orkney road, Brighton, died as the result of injuries suffered when he fell from a window at his home.

He is survived by a brother, Harris Paton, at Staples street, Melrose; his mother, Mrs. Andrew Paton; two sisters, Miss Mabel F. Paton, Mrs. G. Chester Glidden of Danvers, and a son, Bruce Paton. The body will be at the Glidden home, No. 34 Ash street, Danvers, until the time of the funeral Friday.

G. A. R. VETERAN PARADE ENDS CONVENTION

A parade of the 300 Massachusetts Civil War veterans, who are Boston's guests, from Faneuil Hall to Kingsley Hall, where dinner will be served, will mark the end today of the 59th annual encampment of the Massachusetts department of the G. A. R.

The thin ranks of the veterans indicate that this year's encampment is one of the last that will be held in the State. Many of the veterans predicted that by the time another year has passed, the ranks will have been so decimated that there will be only a handful left to meet and carry on the business of the organization that has existed for almost three-score years.

The average age of the veterans is now over 90 years and 14 per cent. of the State membership died during the past year, while more than 50 per cent. of the 3,000 still alive in the State are unable to travel.

Coat of Tan Best Health Insurance for Babies

Bananas—sunburn—cod liver oil!

An ideal combination for the baby, according to Dr. Fritz Talbot, professor at Harvard University Medical School.

A coat of tan, Dr. Talbot told members of a State health conference, was one of the best insurances in the world against tuberculosis in the child. He pooh-poohed the idea that bright sunlight would harm, in any way, the eyesight of the infant.

Cod liver oil is an excellent thing for children, and bananas, cooked and run through a sieve, were also given a big boost by Dr. Talbot.

The Story Thus Far

LIKE a tired gull to a ship's rigging came Barbara Brown out of the New Year's blizzard to the jewel house in Ryeneck, where J. B. Hardiman was wont to indulge his overlord fancy for youth and beauty. She stayed that night and woke to find herself mistress of the place—at a price. Rather than pay the price, Barbara, one chill night, stole the gardener's clothes, fled from the house of tribulations and found herself on the high road. She started South in a side-door Pullman.

EVERY [illegible] of Barbara's body craved rest, but sleep was impossible. The freight's vibrations rattled her wakeful bones. The candles flickered. At times they went out and had to be relit. Fantastic shadows danced on the walls.

It began to rain. Water dripped into the car. Some of the others dozed, tied up in frowsy knots of one or more men. A single sleeper sprawled in a corner of the car on a thin layer of dirty straw. His knobby red nose pointed roofwards. From a crack in the wood ceiling raindrops fell metronomically on the [illegible] spot and splashed off. She could count five between each splash.

STREAM LINE GREAT FACTOR IN SUCCESS

By DR. FRANK CRANE

AN important element of speed is the shape of the body as well as the power in it.

Airplanes go fast not only because they have high motor power, but because they are so shaped as to minify the resistance of the air.

It is essential in creating a fast moving automobile that the body should have a stream line.

An airplane the other day flew over 266 miles an hour. Fifteen years ago it was considered an exploit for anything to move fifty miles an hour.

The difference is not only in the amount of motive power a machine can carry, but in the lines on which the machine is built.

You may be a [illegible] go-getter, and all that sort of thing, that is, you may have plenty of force and energy, but if you don't have the ability to get along with people you won't go far.

Politeness is necessary, and good nature, tact and appearance add to your stream line.

The ability to make friends and get along with people is not to be despised. It has quite as much to do with your progress as the power you can summon forth.

Many a boy at school complains of his teacher and he asks when the trouble is in him. He creates too much resistance.

Of course the stream line is not everything. It does you no good to be simply a good fellow unless you have some driving force within you.

But the stream line is something and is something which, as an element to your progress, is often overlooked.

It pays not only to have the right force, but to create the least resistance in the exercise of that force.

President Wilson was a man of undoubted force, but he roused too much opposition, for one reason or another.

Of course all kinds of force create opposition, and one cannot have decided ideas about anything without being doubted and disputed.

But there is a way to go at things and the ability to please others is not to be despised.

All of us want to get on, and we should remember that the stream line body has quite as much to do with our ability to make rapid progress as driving force.

"KIDNAPING" THREAT UP TO P. O. OFFICIALS

Chicago, April 8.—A threatening letter received by Walter A. Graff, wealthy [illegible] and resident of the community where Richard Loeb and Nathan Leopold kidnapped and murdered "Bobbie" Franks for a "thrill," will be turned over to post office inspectors, Mr. Graff said today. "If you value the life of your daughter Ruth," the letter said, "you will place $10,000 in Washington Park." The letter also included Dr. Graff's son, Walter, 13, in its threats.

COSTS $1 PER MILE PER HOUR TO GO SPEEDING

Washington, April 8.—It is costing Washington motorists now a dollar a mile per hour to exceed the speed limit. Judge MacDonald, presiding in the Traffic Court, has adopted this as a fair and expeditious basis for fining speeders, a motorist, for example, accused of turning off thirty-five miles an hour, being assessed just that number of dollars.

LYNN MAN WED SINCE OCTOBER

Is on Delayed Honeymoon When Range Is Delivered at Mother's Home

A new gas stove, delivered by mistake at the residence of Mrs. Alfred S. Hill of No. 723 Boston street, Lynn, disclosed a hidden romance and a secret wedding.

The new stove came to the house addressed to "Mrs. Hill," and knowing it was not for her, she began an investigation.

She learned that her son, Alfred E. Hill, a World War veteran employed in the Lynn postoffice, and Miss Agnes S. Schroeder of No. [illegible] street, were secretly married last October, and immediately after the ceremony they went to their homes and failed to disclose their secret.

Meanwhile the son Alfred was in New York and the gas stove which had created the furor in the Hill home had not been delivered to the proper owner.

Mrs. Hill communicated with her son in New York and received a letter confirming the fact of his marriage and advising his mother that he and his bride were on a belated honeymoon.

The stove, the message said, should have been delivered at No. [illegible] avenue, where the newlyweds [illegible] furnishing a home, but by mistake it was delivered at his mother's house, revealing the wedding secret.

Hill is a son of Metropolitan Patrolman Alfred S. Hill. He served in the [illegible] Artillery during the World War in France and is widely known in Lynn.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Schroeder of Ohio.

DAVIDSON RISES IN SUPPORT OF LEAHY

By JOE CASHMAN

A [illegible] statement issued [illegible] from the office of Claude Davidson, president of the Greater Boston Twilight League, confirms Manager Dan Leahy's explanation of the breach between the players and management of the North Cambridge club over the money received by members of the "Cantab" nine last season which appeared in the Boston Evening American yesterday.

Davidson vigorously supports Leahy's side in the controversy [illegible] Cantab manager expresses his willingness to [illegible] players who have just claims for back pay providing they present their cases individually.

Davidson's statement is as follows:

On Sunday, March 29, I attended a meeting of the North Cambridge ball players and Manager Leahy in Cambridge. At this meeting it was stated that the players had organized and that if [illegible] demands for back money were not met they would take the matter into their own hands.

Mr. Leahy agreed to pay every cent he owed the players for last year [illegible] The [illegible] agreed to have a committee of three talk the matter over with Mr. Leahy and myself and the players [illegible] to keep the details of the meeting confidential.

Since this time the players have [illegible] their own hands and through anonymous letters [illegible] given to the press [illegible] are owed [illegible]

The truth of the matter is that four of the insurgent ball players were paid in full for their services last year and at least three more are owed not more than two days' pay. Three other members of the nine who played in the final series last year have refused to enter into the controversy.

I refuse to take part in any [illegible] or with ball players as an organization, but will listen to the players who have a claim to be[illegible]

SHEBO

Facing Life Fearlessly, This Girl of Today Meets Each Problem as It Comes

Rough, unkempt as they were, Barbara felt for her fellow ejectamenta, a kinship tinctured with affection. They had ac- epted her without any curiosity about pedigree. She was in a ace full of men and she felt such privacy as she had not had years full of sister women. Trousers were a better envelope the soul than skirts.

A card game started. A surprising amount of silver and eenbacks appeared. The bums had money. Where did it me from? Certainly they had not earned it. She recalled e ease with which, in Somerville, she had mooched a half llar from a sympathetic townsman.

f it she still had twenty cents. f of this was the lucky dime she ant to hold as long as she lived. e jingled two nickels and was led with a sense that they were cky, too.

The game was called Black Jack. ne drew cards until one had a lot talling twenty-one, or short of that unt by as little as possible. The ore cards you drew to make the tal, the more money you collected. She brought her two nickels to light.

"Deal me in!" She plunged.

When her turn came she was schooled in the jargon of the game. "Hit me!"

Bravo shauntered over to watch from behind her back. Her hidden card was an ace, the exposed card the same. Milkshake the banker, dealt her a five-spot. That gave her a total of seven. She looked up enquiringly at Bravo and showed him her hidden card. He grinned.

"Hit me!" She cried, delighted.

Milkshade slapped down a deuce. "There ain't no justice," he groaned. Barbara totaled on her fingers. Nine. She ignored a nudge from Bravo's knee.

"Hit me!" she demanded.

A four-spot made it thirteen. She drew a trey and a five.

Milkshake, with no real hope of anything but the worst, drew the overdue face card and announced himself beaten. Polysyllabic obscenities accompanied his announcement. He flipped up Barbara's concealed card and wearily pushed over 90 cents.

There Ain't No Justice.

In the strong passion of hazard she forgot her aches. If ten cents became ninety in this interesting game, what might not happen to ninety cents? When it came her turn to bid she pushed her all to the center of the soap box.

"The works?" asked Milkshake, uneasily.

"The works," exulted Barbara.

This time she drew seven cards.

"I've got twenty," she announced obligingly.

"Take another," [illegible] crafty Milkshake. "You might hit 21."

"The kid'll stand on what he's got," interfered Bravo.

"I'm cold," explained Milkshake, and tossed the pack of cards over his head. "I claim there ain't no justice."

He began to count out more. He shoved over $9.90. He expressed regret in simple, awful terms. Barbara buried her winnings deep.

"I'm through." She rose and stretched.

"What!" Milkshake was not only surprised. He was severely wounded.

"I might lose next time," explained Barbara, simply.

There was a howl of laughter. She withdrew flushing. She appealed to Bravo.

"What's wrong? Can't I quit when I want to?"

"Certainly you can."

She retired to her corner. How simple the scheme of vagabond economics. One panhandled or gambled. A player from the ruined game crossed to her.

Tried To Borrow.

"They took me," he informed lugubriously.

"That's too bad," sympathized Barbara.

"I'm clean," he confided. (She doubted [illegible].) "Can ya lend me the loan of a ten?"

"Sure thing, brother." She resurrected her hoard and found a dime. "Here."

He was ungrateful. He looked at the dime [illegible] came to the un[illegible] conclusion that a dime it was, indeed, and finished the pantomime [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible] into the other end of the car. Strange people, these hoboes.

"Takes [illegible] the dough in the game," complained the [illegible], "then refuses to stake a guy. I ask, if there any justice?"

"Pipe down," said Bravo quietly from the shadows. The surly one shambled away.

The door in the roof of the car opened and a man in oilskins clambered down. The card game expired. The intruder's eyes caught the money on the surface of the soap box and lit.

"He's the shack," informed a cryptologist at Barbara's feet.

"And what's a shack?" queried Barbara in a whisper.

"A brakie."

"What's a brakie?"

A Red Flag Unfurls.

He grunted disguest. Milkshake was negotiating converse with the interloper.

"Wanna be dealt in?" he asked.

"Sure I do—for a buck apiece."

There was a grumble of protest.

"We pay the other shack a dollar," said Helsingfors.

"Yeah, [illegible] That was another shack, a [illegible] You been here [illegible] his job. He [illegible] for one division and that division's up. [illegible] in, all of you, or I'll have to kick you all out."

The man who had asked Barbara for the loan of a ten was the first to shell out his dollar to Oilskins. The rest followed suit. Barbara counted [illegible] a dollar in change and reluctantly handed it to the brakeman.

His departure released sulphurous comments.

"The dirty sapsticker," from Milkshake.

"Damn thief," from Helsingfors.

"The big bum," contributed Barbara. She [illegible] She was [illegible] with a warm fellow feeling for her exploited brotherhood. She counted her money.

The dollar outlay had reduced it to an insignificant $8.80. What was the use of honest enterprise? One scraped together a [illegible] authority [illegible] She definitely adopted the hobo [illegible]

"There ain't no justice."

Land Ho!

Every candle was extinguished. In the gloom of the car faces gleamed with a ghostly radiance, as of land by moonlight.

Preparatory to making the [illegible] step at [illegible] the train began to lose speed. [illegible] Bravo had ordered them to [illegible] It was decided to [illegible] in the railway siding which [illegible] roomed from the [illegible] his small Southern town, rather than risk [illegible] Springs through the [illegible] freight yard of the [illegible] town.

The [illegible] of the freight's progress over the roaring rails had become for Barbara as natural [illegible] the drawing of breath. [illegible] with [illegible] the slowing down of the train seemed [illegible] as [illegible] as the [illegible]

Her comrades [illegible] to the same [illegible] sense of [illegible] which afflicted her. The car had been a little hell on wheels. But it had been home for the band of homeless ones. For some aeons [illegible] for heaven. But let him be spewn forth now from his home in Hell, and the universe would not contain his lament.

Disembarking.

Barbara was directly in front of the side door of the freight when it was opened. She shrank back with a cry and throwing up her arm, shielded the abnormally enlarged pupils of her eyes from the [illegible] spectacle of sun and earth, green glory which stood revealed.

The transition from comfort to want is harsh but bearable. It is the sudden [illegible] in the midst of despair which breaks the heart.

There was a young beech powdered with new green which stood up like a banner from the small hill in the foreground flaunting its brilliance [illegible] against the dust blue of old mountains far away. The [illegible] of beauty [illegible] winged [illegible] the young [illegible] into her [illegible] with its love[illegible] wanted to weep with the [illegible] of her delight. She looked as [illegible] drink.

[illegible] left the freight one by one. In her turn Barbara stood in the doorway and prepared to leap.

[illegible] jump off [illegible] get kicked off," Milkshake [illegible] was [illegible] emphatic [illegible] to which Barbara was now [illegible] behind her [illegible]

[illegible] her [illegible] her eyes [illegible] She [illegible] her [illegible] without a whimper. Pain was small change in the hobo's life. She assured herself that Alley was unhurt and limped down the path that Mr. Booth, Helsingfors, Solly, The Dean, and the half dozen other tramps who had preceded her had taken.

It led to a clump of thinned woods. They came abruptly into a clearing and stopped. Barbara saw the open side of a three-sided shed, a railway carpentry shop abandoned by a crew which had finished some Herculean labor here and left this grass-carpeted structure as only record of their toil.

SHE joined the "Love-Scorners" Club. She talked chummily to the young man himself all the way home, but when she reached her own door she always shut him out. Smiled and shut him out.

And on the other side, with the door between him and herself, she LAUGHED!

She always said: "We can be nice [illegible] dear [illegible] not any nearer and nearer. You cannot ever cross my threshold to drink a dish of tea and gossip with me. Because frankly, I'm afraid you won't come to stay! And I have much too important things to think of than a tiny and frivolous pink and yellow baby like you. Besides, [illegible] the [illegible] your own mother has said that — you were a trifle [illegible] light one—I will [illegible]

ADVICE TO LOVELORN

By Beatrice Fairfax

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:

I have been going about with a [illegible] three years. [illegible] there is another [illegible] of jealousy. I love [illegible] desire is for [illegible] Why should I feel [illegible] of me?

BROKEN HEARTED.

YOU are taking a very sensible [illegible] my dear [illegible] in love with another girl. After all, [illegible] were not engaged, you had every reason to expect that some [illegible] become interested [illegible]

[illegible] jealousy. [illegible] remember [illegible] are many other interesting young men in the world. Be ready for friendship and for love when the right man comes along.

SECRETS OF HEALTH

By Charles A. L. Reed, M. D.
Former President of the American Medical Association

ONE outgrowth of the [illegible] festival, "May Day," of [illegible] has been Child's Day May first in the United States.

"I'm to be Queen of the May, mother" may now be sung with [illegible] the girl in the [illegible]

The American Child Health Association has taken the initiative in establishing this date for concentrating attention upon the health of the [illegible]

[illegible]

Make it a day when children may [illegible] and romp and play in that [illegible] from [illegible]

If health is thus reduced to an object lesson without the label of health being put upon it, the occasion will have the maximum of [illegible]

This [illegible] be in addition to [illegible] programme for the [illegible] health [illegible]

[illegible] games upon them.

It is possible to keep dinging at a child about his health until he wishes he would lose it. There would be at least one thing less to nag about.

But of course while the children on May Day are [illegible] enjoying health the grown-ups may well talk about [illegible] child health and the means whereby further to advance it.

State child laws, especially child labor [illegible] may well be given careful consideration. The [illegible] amendment to the [illegible] the general question of food, clothing and general direction of child behavior are problems which upon this day may well be given careful consideration.

But don't inflict your big-worded and long-winded discourses upon the [illegible]

Let them [illegible] and play.

Overalls His Only Clothes

Helping Hand Editor:

I am a Canadian war vet and am working only two days a week. I have a new baby girl, also three other children, boy, four, girl, three, and baby, one and one-half. We need all kinds of clothes. My wife takes size 40 and I take size 48. All I have is overalls to wear and I wish some kind readers would help me. I can't get help from the city yet because I am not naturalized. I took out my first papers. I can't get them enough to eat. ADRIEN.

Bed Is Needed

Helping Hand Editor:

I am greatly in need of a bed. I would like a three-quarter one, as I have a mattress for that size. I have seven children. Would also appreciate a bureau of any kind and baby needs a high chair, but the bed is needed above everything. I am just starting to get my rooms furnished and find it slow work, as my income is small and the demands upon it are great, so any kind of furniture that is given me will be appreciated.

JAMAICA PLAIN.

Others In Need

Lillian, age 8, writes mother is sick in bed and they have no shoes or clothing for Easter. There are boys ages 12 and 10, and girls 12 and 5, and herself. Only one working is brother, 17, who makes only $13 a week.

Mrs. Bertha K., mother of eight children, asks for clothing for boys 14, 6 and 4, girls 11, 9, 8, 2 and baby 4 months old. Husbands only gets $15 a week.

Mrs. R. M. M., who does a lot of sewing at night, would appreciate two old fashioned parlor lamps.

Mrs. M. K. H., mother of eight children, boys 14, 10, 8 and 1 and girls 13, 12, 10 and 4, asks for clothing for them and for a newcomer expected this month. Is about distracted. Would also appreciate some old sheets.

Mrs. M. J. D. is in need of clothing, size 40. Would be very grateful to any reader who could help her out.

Mrs. O. P., troubled with diabetes, but strong, would like a position to work for someone with the same trouble as she knows all about the diet. Willing to go into the country as long as she can get her diet. Considered a good cook.

Annie S., handicapped by deafness, would like a home and moderate wages with some middle aged woman lonely like herself.

Inhale the Vapors

For Catarrh and Colds

To relieve catarrh or check a head cold, melt a little Vicks in a spoon and inhale the vapors of Camphor, Menthol, Eucalyptus, Thyme and Turpentine. Also put a little in each nostril and snuff well back up the head.

Another way is to heat a tin cup, put in a teaspoonful of Vicks and inhale the vapors that way. As fast as the vapors lose their strength, throw out the melted Vicks and add fresh.

Millions of mothers find Vicks the ideal remedy for croup and children's colds because it not only brings quick relief but avoids dosing delicate little stomachs with so much medicine.

MEDITATIONS OF A WIFE

By Helen Rowland

THE average man can get almost as much thrill out of a bright new twenty-cent hat-band as a woman gets out of a twenty-dollar hat.

Helen Rowland

As far as our clothes are concerned, there appears to be only two kinds of women—those at whom men never look, and those at whom they are shocked.

* * *

It's pretty hard for even a fickle man to destroy a woman's faith in life, so long as she has a permanent wave, a reliable milliner, a dependable beauty-parlor and a face-powder that will stick.

* * *

Unless a woman looks at least five years younger in this year's hat than she did in the one she bought five years ago, she considers her Spring outfit a failure. But, as long as a man can look in the mirror, and see a few wisps of hair or a bright new hat-band above his face and a snappy Spring necktie beneath it, he still feels that he is young enough to be "somebody's darling."

* * *

Nowadays, most of a woman's clothes slip over her head and drop right into place. But when a man begins dressing, it reminds you of a Pullman porter making up a berth, with all the mechanical devices for hitching the totally unrelated garments together, so that he will look as though he came all in one piece.

* * *

A man never seems to notice a girl these days, unless she is dressed like a loud shriek; and then he immediately wants to tune her down to pianissimo.

* * *

A woman spends half her life in dressing for something, and the other half in enjoying herself; but a man never wastes any time or thought on his clothes—except of course, when he's hunting for his shoes, chasing his hat, keeping his shirt-bosom down, struggling with his evening tie, hitching up his belt, fussing with his collar, and preserving the creases in his trousers.

* * *

A man wants a proper hat for every occasion; but, when it comes to choosing a wife, he expects to find one with the frivolous lightness of a Summer straw, the adaptability and pliancy of a fedora, the durability and comfort of a golf cap, and the elegance and class of a top-hat.

* * *

Even a pretty girl in a new Spring hat and a knee-length skirt stands no show against a baseball scoreboard.

THEY SEE A FISH TRAVELING ON LAND.

By Foxy Grandpa.

BOBBY was preparing to fish and was kneeling down putting a squirming worm on his hook, while I settled myself comfortably under a big tree which shaded the spot by the lake where Bobby hoped to have some luck.

He was just about to cast his line into the water when he stopped short. I knew by the way his eyes brightened that he had seen something interesting and really interesting, because nothing commonplace could take his mind from his fishing.

"What is it?" I asked leaning forward.

"Foxy Grandpa," said Bobby quietly. "There are some things swimming around down here which you can almost see through. They look like flat noodles with a black spot at one end."

"Where?" I asked getting up to my feet.

"Right there," said Bobby, pointing to the water.

"Elvers," I chuckled.

"Elvers?" said Bobby. "What are elvers?"

"Baby eels," I answered.

"They're the funniest looking things I ever saw," murmured Bobby. "Aren't they thin, and what is the black spot"

"Those dots are eyes," I replied. "There's one on each side. I'll tell you something funny about elvers."

"What, Foxy Grandpa?" asked Bobby eagerly.

"In olden times, before men knew that eels lay eggs like all fish, men used to believe that these little elvers were produced from horse hairs which fell into the water while horses were drinking. And that those horse hairs turned into eels."

"How funny!" laughed Bobby.

The little elvers swam away and Bobby settled down seriously to the business in hand.

He made a fine catch, and when it started to get dark strung his fish on a piece of cord, and we started home.

Through the woods we went as the shadows lengthened. The birds were getting ready for bed and twittering a good bit about it, too. The evening breeze sang in the tree tops.

We walked along quietly, Bunny scampering in and out of the underbrush with the hope of finding some juicy berries, and Bobby tramping along triumphantly with his fishing rod.

I stopped to light my pipe and Bobby went on a few paces ahead of me, when he suddenly gave a scream and ran to my side.

"Why, Bobby, what is it?" I asked, putting my arm around the frightened little fellow.

He caught his breath, and pointed to the path. Then he gasped:

"A snake!"

I looked on the ground where Bobby pointed, and then I burst out laughing.

"Snake nothing," I chuckled. "That's a plain, ordinary eel."

"I didn't know eels lived on land!" exclaimed Bobby, quite reassured by now that he was in no danger.

"They don't live on land," I answered, "but they do take walks sometimes."

"What do you mean?" asked Bobby.

"Eels sometimes go from one lake to another and they can travel quite comfortably because they carry along enough water in little reservoirs near their gills to keep them moist."

"Foxy Grandpa," [illegible] Bobby. "That eel may be the mother of the little elvers we saw [illegible] afternoon. Perhaps she [illegible] to see her children."

MEDBURY SAYS---

By John P. Medbury

THE [illegible] problem that a host and hostess have to put up with is the guest who wants to be down [illegible] a big meal. He says [illegible] before the dinner, and "Now I lay me down to sleep" afterwards.

THE company doesn't care if your biscuits are hard as long as your beds are soft.

ONE hostess always served oysters with alarm clocks in them instead of pearls.

SHE served black coffee in place of soup so that her guests could keep awake for the salad.

IF necessary, the company can lie down after the entree and take the dessert to bed with them.

IF the dessert happens to be ice cream you can serve it in hot water bags.

SLEEPING right after a meal is becoming so popular, it looks like the [illegible] will soon be the proper dinner jacket.

IT won't be long before men will be wearing night shirts instead of tuxedos.

THE guests will tuck blankets under their chins instead of napkins.

—By B. C. Forbes—

Senator Borah will gain much applause by his ringing appeal to the American people to throw off the shackles constantly being put on them by Washington.

But isn't modern business mainly responsible for the limiting of State rights and the growth of Federal interference?

* * *

States and local communities built and did pass and administer rules and regulations and laws when activities were almost wholly confined to States and local communities. But America's activities are no longer confined to States or communities. They have become and are destined to continue to become more and more national, even international, in their scope.

How, therefore, is it going to be feasible to stop the trend away from State regulation and towards Federal regulation?

When our bread was baked by the local baker, when our meat was killed by the local butcher, when our groceries were supplied by the local merchant, when lumber to build our homes was cut and prepared locally, when gas was supplied by an isolated plant in our own community, when our factories were owned and managed by a local family or families, when our shoes and clothes were made to measure by hometown folks, when, in short, everything was conducted on a small scale and by our own neighbors, there was little need to run to Washington for protection against unfair practices. We should handle our local problems locally, and our State government could pass and enforce most of the laws found necessary.

But what is the position today?

We have bread baked by gigantic corporations doing an interstate business. Most of our meat comes from a handful of mammoth packing companies controlled in Chicago and New York. The local grocer is being driven out by the chain store owned not by our own local folks.

National, not local, in scope are our modern agricultural machinery companies, lumber companies, cement companies, shoe companies, clothing companies, mail order concerns, sugar companies, tobacco companies, fruit companies, oil companies, paper companies, brass companies, electrical companies, biscuit companies, roofing companies, steel companies, copper companies, oil companies, office supply companies, flour companies, typewriter companies, rubber companies, motion picture companies, breakfast companies, glass companies, radiator companies, express companies.

Gas and electricity are now often supplied by mammoth corporations controlled by absentee owners. Ditto street car systems. In our large cities our milk is furnished by million-dollar corporations doing an interstate business.

How, therefore, now that so many of our modern activities are Federal in scope, are we to avoid recourse to Federal laws to keep them within bounds?

When the World War began it was discovered that the French and British, particularly the latter, hadn't weapons enough to cope with those of Germany. Are not local companies and even states in a somewhat similar position when they attempt to cope with corporations of national magnitude?

* * *

What is likely to happen?

Senator Borah foresees a fatal drift towards bureaucracy, that worst of all forms of government. That certainly is the current trend.

* * *

Can it be checked? Can the evils Senator Borah warns against be averted?

12 P. C. TO NEW HAVEN HOLDERS POSSIBLE

By FRANK H. MELOON,
Financial Editor

New Haven stockholders, cheered by recent developments, can find still further inspiration in the argument of President E. J. Pearson before the New York Public Service Commission this week.

Pres. Pearson

President Pearson declared that because vast sums have gone back into the road for improvements, stockholders have been denied some $70,000,000 in dividends in the last five years.

President Pearson appeared to plead against an order of the commission which would force the company to spend an additional $3,000,000 for improvements at the New Rochelle station. An order has been issued requiring that freight and passenger traffic be segregated at that point.

The improvement, President Pearson said, was not imperative at the present time. He said that the road had spent $65,000,000 during the last five years. Had it not been for this expenditure, he said, the road would have been realizing a net income of $24,000,000 a year, which would have meant 12 per cent. dividends to the stockholders.

Chairman Prendergast of the Public Service Commission directed the engineers of the State Board to conduct an investigation of the New Rochelle improvement.

For the third month in succession, Bradstreet's Index Number of Commodity Prices has shown a decrease, and the April 1 Index Number, $13.6854, marks a decrease of 1 per cent. from March 1 and of 1.8 per cent. from January 1.

Compared with April 1 a year ago, however, a gain of 8.1 per cent. is still shown. The decrease from the peak point of 1923 is only 1.8 per cent., while the gain from the low point of June 1, 1921, is 28.9 per cent. From the peak point of all time, touched on February 1, 1920, the decline is 31.4 per cent., while the rise as compared with August 1, 1914, just as the great war began, is 57 per cent.

Examination of the detailed movement of prices shows some irregularity existing in March, although the general trend was unquestionably downward. Eight groups of commodities went lower, these including, of course, breadstuffs, textiles and metals, besides fruits, hides and leather, coal and coke, oils and naval stores. In the list of advances, provisions were prominent because of the strength of beef cattle and hogs and their products, as well as eggs, besides which chemicals and drugs and miscellaneous products also advanced. In all, sixteen products advanced, forty-three went lower and forty-eight were unchanged.

The index numbers by groups at various dates were as follows:

ELEVATED HITS NEW RECENT HIGH MARK

Boston Elevated sold at 78½ in Boston Stock Exchange trading today, setting a new recent high. Buying in Elevated has in part reflected recent expressions of opinion that the road will never be turned back to private control. The Boston market generally was strong.

Stocks of the leading motor manufacturers continued their forward movement in New York trading, some stocks in this group reaching the highest point for the year.

Maxwell A's rise to 96, up 20 points from its February low, reflected confidence in the expected 8 per cent. dividend declaration by the directors of the company this week. General Motors reached the high point on the recovery, as also did Studebaker, Willys-Overland pfd., Packard, Chandler and Hupp.

California Pete continued in the leadership of the independent oil stocks, heavy buying sending the price up to 31½.

Judge Gary's statement that fundamental business conditions in America were never better helped to stimulate bullish sentiment.

American Can, Baldwin, U. S. Steel and other market leaders received more attention than in the last few sessions.

The market was called upon to absorb heavy profit-taking in the second hour and prices of the active industrial shares were inclined to slightly lower levels.

General Baking was up 14 at 139.

Professional Services

LIGHT CURE
Mr. James M. Walsh, 44 Clarence St., Roxbury, Mass., says: "My hearing was impaired so that I could understand ordinary conversation with difficulty. My auditory canal was full of eczema, that would scale and weep at times, causing an itching and burning that was very hard to bear. I was treated at the hospital. I got no satisfaction there. They gave me a lotion to use which did not benefit me. I read of the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and their new Light Cure. I had them treat me. The light was effective at once and cleared up the eczema and my ear trouble is all gone. I permit the use of this testimonial in the hope of directing others who suffer as I did to the Osmo-Chemic Physicians and a cure for their trouble."
The wonderful power of the X-RAY and MERCURY-QUARTZ LIGHT TREATMENT is proved by the fact that they are accomplishing wonderful results in diseases of every description—CATARRH, DEAFNESS, BRONCHITIS, STOMACH DISEASE, NERVOUS DISORDERS, SKIN DISEASE.
No matter what your disease may be, remember that the Osmo-Chemic doctor gives

Citizens' military training camps, conducted by the Government for the youth of the nation, are national schools for physical health and a thorough understanding of the obligations and privileges of citizenship.

BOSTON EVENING AMERICAN
BOSTON, WEDNESDAY, APRIL 8, 1925

Railroad fares, the best of "eats," sleeping quarters, clothing, athletics, vaudeville, when you are Uncle Sam's guest, for one glorious month of Summer, HE provides everything, pays all bills. U. S. does nothing "by halves"!

A Message for Every Ambitious Young Minute Man Between the Ages of 17 and 24

THE CERTIFICATE of a school teacher or a clergyman that he is of "good moral character and average general intelligence," and the signed statement of a physician that he is a normal young man in good health, are all that any young Minute Man requires in order to enjoy a month's vacation this Summer as the happy guest of the United States government.

About to throw open five great camps in the First Corps Area, Uncle Sam cordially invites 3,000 young New Englanders to come and visit him at his expense. More than half the allotted number have already signed up. In a week or ten days the rush will set in, and before very much longer the remaining places will disappear like mother's griddle cakes with new maple syrup.

The military training camps in the First Corps Area this Summer will number five, as follows:

Fort McKinley, Portland, Me.
Fort Ethan Allen, Burlington, Vt.
Camp Devens, Ayer, Mass.
Fort Adams, Newport, R. I.
Fort Terry, Plum Island, N. Y.

All except the Rhode Island camp will open on August 1 and close on August 30. The camp at Fort Adams will precede the others by one full month.

Never before have so many opportunities been presented to the young New Englander to enjoy a bang-up month in camp at no expense to himself and with the assurance that, if he lives up to the rules and regulations, he will come out a better man and better American.

Here is one of the few occasions when YOUR money, as the saying is, is "no good." Uncle Sam insists upon paying for everything.

He begins by paying your railroad fare, will meet you with an army truck at the railroad station nearest to camp, furnishes uniform and equipment, provides three excellent meals every day, stages vaudeville in plenty, offers physical training and supervised athletics, gives Saturday afternoons and Sundays to rest, recreation or the entertainment of visitors.

The camps are training schools with the Colors to teach the performance of the duty of national citizenship in peace and in war.

The mornings are devoted to instruction, the afternoons to physical training, supervised athletics, instruction and recreation. Athletics include water sports, boxing, tennis, handball, volley ball, football practice, baseball, track and field events. Prizes, in the form of medals, cups and pennants, are provided for those who excel.

Candidates fortunate enough to be accepted are encouraged to bring athletic uniforms and equipment to camp with them. They may also bring musical instruments, but all that is absolutely required is that they reach camp with one piece of hand baggage and underclothing, pajamas, handkerchiefs, towels and toilet articles. They step out of civics and into olive drab and the vacation is under way.

What IS the Citizens' Military Training Camp?

The Citizens' Military Training Camp is a "national school for physical health and a thorough understanding of the obligations and privileges of good citizenship."

Unsettled conditions, possible dangers from the outside world and a broadened conception of America's relations with the other nations of the world have made it advisable to bring together the best young men of all sections on a common basis of equality, to learn in the great out-of-doors and under carefully selected instructors the principles of democracy and the meaning, appreciation and proper safeguards of American institutions.

The best place to train young men, in the opinion of the statesmen, army officers, churchmen, educators, business and professional men and women who commend these activities, is in a camp where they may receive expert physical direction, athletic coaching AND military instruction, together with opportunity for mental and moral development. Here they learn the lessons of discipline, obedience, courtesy, consideration, self-reliance, co-operation and that democratic feeling towards one's fellow-men so necessary in business and professional life.

The training you will receive at any of the five camps of this First Area, and you will be assigned to the camp nearest to your home unless you have reasons for preferring one of the others, will be training in MANHOOD, such training as will be of value in trade, business or profession.

As your body grows stronger and your mind more alert, you will gain in self-respect. Military training will teach you to hold your head high, to stand erect with your chest out, to think clearly and quickly, to act quickly and with confidence, to be neat in your appearance and neat in your surroundings, to respect the rights of others, to forget petty selfishness in working for the general welfare, to be self-sacrificing, to obey instantly and to command obedience.

The work of the Citizens' Military Training Camp, in other words, is a work towards the development of CHARACTER. When you have achieved the attitude of mind and body outlined above, you will have FORMED character.

The camps are open to all young men between the ages of 17 and 24 years, who can pass the physical and mental tests. The courses of training contemplate a full term of four Summers.

The first year's course has a minimum of military training and a maximum of athletic and recreational activities. After completing this course, the cadet selects the branch of the service he desires for the next three Summer camps. He has his choice of the infantry, cavalry, field artillery, coast artillery, signal corps or engineers. At the conclusion of the final year he may be commissioned as a second lieutenant in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

The four courses of instruction are the Basic, the Red, the White and the Blue.

The BASIC course provides preliminary military training, including physical development, athletics, the school of the soldier, squad and company drill, rifle markmanship, first aid, camp sanitation, personal hygiene, military courtesy, the meaning of discipline, and studies in citizenship. Those taking this course will be given an opportunity to qualify for the next higher, or:

RED course, applicants for which, unless they are graduates of the Basic course, must have had military training equivalent thereto.

This course provides training in the different branches of the Army, Infantry, Field Artillery, Cavalry, Coast Artillery, Corps of Engineers and Signal Corps. There is advanced instruction in the subjects covered by the Basic course, and those who take this course will be given the opportunity to qualify IN THE SAME BRANCH for the next higher, or:

WHITE course, which provides training for the different branches of the Army for the purpose of qualifying candidates as specialists and non-commissioned leaders.

This course is open to candidates who have completed the Red course and who have been recommended to pursue the White course, to selected citizens who have had military training equivalent to the Red course, and to selected enlisted men of the Army of the United States. Those who attend will be given the further opportunity to qualify in the same branch for the next higher, or Blue course, but it will be required that they possess, or show that they later will possess, the mental and physical qualifications to become officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Applicants for admission to the BLUE course must be not under 19 or over 31 years of age, and may be:

1—Warrant officers or enlisted men who are physically fit and who have served at least nine months in the National Guard, Organized Reserves or Regular Army, or

2—Men with not less than a completed high school education or its equivalent and who possess the personality, appearance, tact, bearing and general adaptability which will fit them, after further training IN the Blue course, to take the necessary mental and physical examination to be OFFICERS of the Officers' Reserve Corps.

NO American, and least of all the professional soldier, is so benighted as to desire war, but every thoughtful and patriotic American is resolved that if war shall come again it must not catch the United States as unprepared as we were caught by the World War.

On the second day of August, eleven years ago, Germany started its march on France, the Russians crossed the German frontier into East Prussia and the eyes of the world turned on little Belgium, where gray hosts already were beating at the gates of Liege.

People had been saying that such a calamity was "impossible." * * * There are some who say the same thing today. * * *

Of one thing we CAN be certain, and that is that the nation which neglects to train its young men to take up arms in the defence of the principles it looks upon as sacred will cease to hold its position among the nations of the world and inevitably will be retired to a position of stagnation and shame.

Here on the threshold of the one hundred and fiftieth anniversary of Lexington and Concord and Bunker Hill the Nation calls again to the young Minute Men of New England, not to risk their lives in the cause of freedom, but to so prepare and school themselves that, demonstrating their fitness and their readiness, they may not be asked for such a sacrifice.

The New Englanders of 1775 had been brought up with firearms in their hands, and from boyhood were trained in their use. Many of the men of Middlesex who drove the British back from Concord had fought valiantly for the mother country against the French and the Indians. They were TRAINED men.

For the average young man of today, the young man of the school, the farm or the factory, that sort of training is available only in the Citizens' Military Training Camp.

The best way to avoid war, next to living peaceably with other nations, is to be reasonably prepared. The training of the citizen to take his part if the need comes is the surest preventative of war.

There is no better way for any young American to spend the Summer than by attending one of these camps. His health, happiness and capacity for service will be immeasurably increased by the experience.

If they will but act quickly many of the young men who read these words may find a place in one of THIS Summer's camps in New England.

In your home county, and possibly in your immediate neighborhood, there is a civilian representative of the Military Training Camps Association, which as a peace time organization is devoting its entire attention to the building up of these activities by acting as a recruiting agency, under the direction of the First Corps Area Headquarters. The name of your local representative, or any other information desired, may be obtained from the "Officer in Charge, C. M. T. C. Affairs, Headquarters First Corps Area, Army Base, Boston 9, Mass.," or from any of these civilian aides to the Secretary of War:

For all New England, Pierpont L. Stackpole, 84 State street, Boston; Maine, Sabine W. Wood, 189 Exchange street, Bangor; New Hampshire, Robert O. Blood, 4 North State street, Concord; Vermont, Loren R. Pierce, Woodstock; Massachusetts, Ralph Lowell, Room 214, 84 State street, Boston; Rhode Island, Royal C. Taft, Hospital Trust Building, Providence; Connecticut, John L. Gilson, 185 Church street, New Haven.

To the Youth of New England:

The White House
Washington, D. C.

The young men of America have always shown patriotic devotion to their country in time of stress. They have opportunity today of preparation for service in time of peace.

The Government has established the Citizens' Military Training Camps, which are essentially schools in Citizenship. They are conducted by the War Department, which alone has personnel sufficient to give the various types of training offered in them. They are administered by selected officers of the Regular Army, the National Guard and the Reserve Corps, under discipline well adapted to a plan of voluntary civilian training.

These camps are an essential in the plan of national security. They promote obedience to law and respect for the institutions of a well-ordered society. Young men are helped to physical health, mental vigor and moral excellence. Social understanding and democratic feeling are developed; love and reverence for the flag are the natural outcome of the training. Courtesy in act, sympathy in feeling, tolerance in thought, are the ideals.

Recognizing the great good which comes to Government and to people from the Citizens' Military Training Camps, I hope that each year an increasing number of young men may take advantage of the opportunity which is afforded them.

CALVIN COOLIDGE.
